UN Votes to Censure Speech by S.A. Envoy

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United Nations General Assembly today voted overwhelmingly in favor of a motion of censure against South Africa for a speech delivered earlier in the day by South Africa's Foreign Minister Eric Louw. The vote was 67 to 1 with 20 abstentions, Canada being one of the abstainers.

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—South African Foreign Minister Eric Louw lashed out at African critics of his country's racial policies today in the United Nations General Assembly.

Louw told the assembly his country is not going to swerve from its policy of separate racial development despite criticism from other countries.

He also said that many of the African countries which were criticizing his government were faced with appalling economic conditions and illiteracy, and were criticizing South Africa to divert attention from their own shortcomings.

He mentioned specifically Liberia and Ethiopia—two of the oldest independent countries in Africa—as places where conditions were poor.

Liberian delegate Henry Ford Cooper immediately submitted a formal motion to expunge Louw's entire speech from the assembly record.

'Better Understanding' Gained in Berlin Talks

LORD HOME:

'War Danger Now Realized'

BRIGHTON, England (Reuters)—Foreign Secretary Lord Home today said the West has convinced Andrei Gromyko that interference with access to West Berlin would mean fighting that could lead to a nuclear war.

East Germans 'Jump Gun' On Protest

WASHINGTON (AP)—A United States spokesman denied today that the West plans to send West German police into West Berlin, and said an East German protest against the alleged plan would not be accepted by the Western powers.

The transport of such reinforcements by air or surface routes would be considered aggression, the Communists said and would be dealt with accordingly.

State department press officer Lincoln White said East German authorities had "again jumped the gun and are seeking to exploit propagandistically a development that has not occurred."

In a routine practice alert, 1,000 American troops rushed through the streets of West Berlin this morning to test their operational readiness.

The exercise was staged amid allied reports that some 300,000 Soviet, East German, Polish and Czech troops of the Warsaw Pact are holding war manoeuvres in East Germany.

In West Germany, British and American troops are in the third day of a six-day exercise.

Now we are in a better position to talk about the substance of a serious negotiation. But the lesson of these preliminary exchanges is that while we must be relentless in pursuit of peace, we must be implacable in securing the essential liberties."

DEPLORES LOOSE TALK

Home deprecated public statements about the Berlin crisis that could jeopardize the West's negotiations with the Communists.

He said a hazard of the negotiator is that "his own people are forever signalling his cards to the other side, not deliberately certainly, not maliciously, but as a part of our tradition of free speech."

"I must ask everyone to remember that the Communist technique of negotiation is to pocket each concession and then try to raise the bid."

Home said he hoped everyone would help to see negotiations are carried on in private.

Home spoke to the conference on an emergency resolution—later passed with only one dissenting vote—asking full support for the government and the Western allies in their stand on "the freedom and viability of West Berlin."

The emergency motion also asked the conference to reaffirm support of the United Nations charter and "for all measures designed to safeguard the independence, impartiality and effectiveness" of the UN secretariat.

His statement met with widespread approval from delegates who adopted by raised hands a resolution calling for control of the immigration flow.

Butler said the measures the government had in mind would be discussed with Commonwealth countries and added: "I have no intention of introducing legislation based on color."

Butler said 50,000 immigrants last year came from the West Indies and 8,000 from India, Pakistan, West Africa, Aden and Hong Kong. He predicted the immigration figure would rise to 100,000 this year.

Butler said the government's program would include barring persons with criminal records, requiring potential immigrants to show they have a job in Britain, and a stricter check on health.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The National Geographic Society came up today with the startling information that the British parliament delayed the invention of the airplane for 60 years.

The society said a British inventor named William Samuel Henson applied for a patent on an "entirely rational" aircraft in 1842—six decades before Orville and Wilbur Wright flew 856 feet at Kitty Hawk, N.C.

Henson received his patent and petitioned parliament for funds to construct the plane. But the British government, according to the society, did not or could not supply the money despite "great public interest."

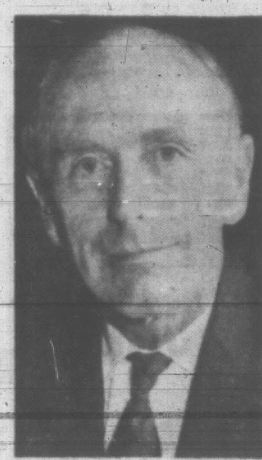

Henson's patent application described an "aerial steam carriage to convey letters, goods and passengers from place to place through the air."

His aircraft was a monoplane called the "Ariel," weighed 3,000 pounds and was powered by a steam engine capable of delivering 50 horsepower.

The geographic society said the engine was hitched to two pusher propellers which resembled paddle wheels. The wing was much like that on the Wright brothers plane, ribbed and covered with a strong fabric. "I prefer oiled silk for this purpose," Henson wrote in his patent application.

Henson's conception was entirely rational and markedly in advance of scientific thought for the year 1842," the society commented. "He lacked for success only a sufficiently light engine and a knowledge of the superiority of a curved wing section."

Queen Victoria herself granted Henson the patent for his "locomotive apparatus for air" the following year, Britain was in the throes of a severe depression and Henson never went beyond drawing of his aircraft.

IT'S A VIRUS

Feel Punk? Don't Blame Test Fallout

TORONTO (CP)—Radioactive fallout is believed by some people to have caused symptoms of persistent sore throat, coughing, aching joints and lack of energy, Dr. Gordon Bates, president of the Health League of Canada, said today.

He said the league had received calls from people suffering from the symptoms, which, he said, are "generally due to a virus."

Dr. Bates said doctors do not know enough about radiation effects to say whether the symptoms are due to the increase in fallout caused by Russian nuclear tests.

Dr. W. C. Brown, deputy minister of health for Ontario, said he is convinced fallout is not the cause, but "we have no real knowledge of the biological effect of fallout."

OTTAWA (CP)—The average radiation level recorded by Canadian air sampling stations for the last week of September was almost unchanged from the level two weeks previous, it was announced today.

NEW VOLCANIC ERUPTIONS HIT ISLAND

CAPETOWN, South Africa (UPI)—Two more volcanic cones burst open on remote Tristan da Cunha Island today, linking up with the smoking volcano whose sudden eruption forced islanders to flee to sea Tuesday. (See story page 14.)

Britain to Curb Immigrant Flow

BRIGHTON, England (CP)—Home Secretary Richard A. Butler today promised the Conservative party conference that the government would slow the flow of Commonwealth immigrants into Britain.

His statement met with widespread approval from delegates who adopted by raised hands a resolution calling for control of the immigration flow.

Butler said the measures the government had in mind would be discussed with Commonwealth countries and added: "I have no intention of introducing legislation based on color."

U.K. AIRPLANE INVENTOR BORN 60 YEARS TOO SOON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The National Geographic Society came up today with the startling information that the British parliament delayed the invention of the airplane for 60 years.

The society said a British inventor named William Samuel Henson applied for a patent on an "entirely rational" aircraft in 1842—six decades before Orville and Wilbur Wright flew 856 feet at Kitty Hawk, N.C.

Gromyko Reports To Khrushchev

LONDON (CP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko told reporters as he left here for Moscow today there is "a definite sign that understanding is growing" on the Berlin problem.

Gromyko left by plane to report to Nikita Khrushchev on his talks in Washington with President Kennedy last week and his meeting here Tuesday with Prime Minister Macmillan.

There is a definite sign that understanding is growing of the Berlin problem, which is very important," Gromyko said at the airport.

"Everything must be done to find a peaceful solution," he said. "Russia is doing its best to facilitate such a peaceful solution but not everything depends upon the Soviet government."

Interim Settlement Rejected

Gromyko was asked whether Russia would be prepared to negotiate an interim settlement on Berlin. "We do not think an interim settlement would be good. We think the peace treaty must be concluded and signed."

"Our No. 1 choice is the conclusion of a peace treaty together with the Western powers on the basis of an understanding with them."

Only if such an understanding could not be reached, would Russia sign a peace treaty with East Germany, he said.

Gromyko said his talks with Macmillan and the Foreign Secretary, the Earl of Home, had been useful.

"We think there has been a certain contribution in the right direction," he said.

Gromyko refused to comment on the possibility of an East-West summit conference soon. This was not discussed during his talks with Macmillan, he said.

The talks here followed similar talks with President Kennedy and State Secretary Rusk in Washington and New York.

The contracts, stretching over a period of three weeks, produced no tangible progress toward peaceful settlement of the Berlin crisis but appeared to take some of the heat out of it.

The usually dour Gromyko flashed smiles, Vs for victory and a new troika sign to newspapermen after his hour and 40-minute session with Macmillan. Several times he told reporters that everything must be done to avert a military collision over Berlin.

British sources said Gromyko's meeting with the British leader produced no progress towards a solution to the Berlin crisis but appeared to take some of the heat out of it.

PLYMOUTH, Eng.—A city councilman here came under fire today for giving Russian tourists too intimate a glimpse of the seamy side of life in this historic port.

Guy Miles took the Russians, a "good-will exchange party," on a tour of "typical working-class families."

They found Mrs. Mavis Graham, 38, who is expecting her 17th child next month, was cooking on an oil stove because the electricity and gas had been cut off. She explained that she and her unemployed husband had gotten behind on their bills.

Mrs. Graham said the Russians seemed surprised that she could get along on less than $50 a week.

"One of them took lots of notes," she said.

Miles' fellow councilmen were sharply critical.

"They couldn't have chosen a worse example," fumed Councilman Dermot Fitzgerald. "It wasn't fair to show the Russians the Graham home," said Mayor Arthur Goldberg. "I shall certainly tell them this is no way typical," he said.

At a party Tuesday night, Soviet tourist K. Mikhailov of Novorossisk, said he did not know whether the Graham house was typical of Plymouth but he did say it was "unusual" for a mother to have 17 children.

"In my country," he said, "any mother who has more than about five children gets a medal."

LONDON—A protest march against protest marches was announced Tuesday by 18 employees of a ballroom. It will take place Thursday, with participants carrying banners saying "we get top wages" and "we are happy in our work". Allan Ferris, manager of the ballroom and leader of the march, explained: "We are sick of people calling for strikes and moaning all the time. Some people are happy."

PILSWORTH, England—It was gin that made the telephone in the Three Arrows pub go dead around closing time each night.

"You might say the phone got dead drunk," said the manager, Stanley Payne.

The phone went out like a light every night and came on again in the morning. Repairmen investigated and could find nothing wrong with the mechanism.

Then one of them spotted the gin bottle, opened for quick, measured service and hanging above the phone.

During the pub's trading hours, they found, drips from the bottle were falling on the phone. The gin was seeping into the mechanism, putting it out of action.

By morning the gin in the phone had evaporated and the mechanism worked again.

Official's Son Got Bia Contracts

QUEBEC (CP)—The son of a Union Nationale party official testified Tuesday that his office supplies firm did 90 per cent of its business with the Union Nationale government totalling about $1,379,000 in a five-year period.

Robert Martineau, 35, son of Gerald Martineau, Union Nationale party treasurer and member of the Legislative Council—Quebec's upper house—testified before the Salvatroy commission into purchasing practices under the Union Nationale.

Robert Martineau said his firm, which occupies the same building as a similar company run by his father, was able to give the provincial government discounts ranging from 5 to 17 per cent on sales of type writers and adding machines.

'CHALLENGE'
ENDS IN DEATH

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI)—Carlton Lee Williamson and his wife of six years, Margaret, joked Sunday night while driving home from a wedding party that he was too old to carry her across their threshold.

Williamson, 38, took up the challenge. He swept his 34-year-old wife into his arms, stepped up to the threshold—then tripped and fell.

Thursday Mrs. Williamson died of a basal skull fracture.

'No Progress' On UN Leader

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Possibly a "superman" isn't needed, but more than three weeks after Dag Hammarskjöld's death the great powers appear as far apart as ever on a successor for the late United Nations secretary-general.

DR. T. F. TSIANG

Free China Still Bars Mongolia

TAIPEI (AP)—A foreign office spokesman today virtually denied reports suggesting that Nationalist China might change its stand against the admission of Outer Mongolia to the United Nations.

Earlier, the foreign office described reports to that effect, published by the independent China Post, as highly speculative and incorrect.

The newspaper attributed its report to a government source. In New York, Dr. T. F. Tsiang, Nationalist China's ambassador to the United Nations, said last Sunday on a television program that his government was reconsidering its decision to veto Outer Mongolia. He added that "the final decision has not been made."

Winter Works In Oak Bay Set to Start

First phase of Oak Bay's $176,000 winter works program is scheduled to get under way Monday, opening day of the 6½-month government-assisted scheme.

An estimated $30,000 project to extend Norfolk Road a remaining block to intersect with Ripon is the first item on the municipal engineer's agenda.

Norfolk already runs about a block north from Lansdowne and has pavement, curbs, gutters, drainage and lighting, stopping in a dead-end in a brushy, treed area so far undeveloped. There are a number of new houses on the existing portion.

The building job requires full completion of the street, with pavement, curbs, gutters, drains and sidewalk on one side.

SIDEWALKS

Second job will be construction of sidewalks on both sides of Henderson from where they now end near Kendall, north to Cedar Hill Cross Road, at a cost of $12,000 for the three blocks.

The rest of the street, including lighting, was completed last year.

Some 10-15 additional public works men will be hired initially, and the extra labor force will build up to about 30 men during the course of the winter, engineer Geoffrey White said.

SCIENTIST 'ABDUCTED' BY DUTCH, RUSS CHARGE

THE HAGUE (Reuters) — The Soviet Embassy here today accused Dutch authorities of "abducting" 35-year-old Russian biochemist Alexei Golub, who sought asylum in The Netherlands Monday.

The embassy also alleged that the Dutch police had tried to "abduct" his wife Irena, who flew back to the Soviet Union without her husband.

The charges were made at a press conference by press attache A. D. Popov in what he described as a statement on behalf of the embassy.

Popov said Soviet Ambassador P. K. Ponomarev, who was involved in Monday's airport fight with Dutch police before Mrs. Golub's departure, has handed an aide-memoire to the Dutch foreign ministry asking for an interview with the scientist.

The press attache alleged that when Golub was brought to his wife in the office of the Soviet Aeroflot Airlines he was without tie and shoelaces.

The aide-memoire, read by Popov, raised a suicide angle. It quoted Golub as saying when he met his wife at the airport:

"Look, Ira, at my condition; they have taken away my tie and shoelaces so that I shall not hang myself."

Commissioner L. Van Haaren of the Amsterdam aliens police denied rumors that Golub had attempted suicide.

Van Haaren said "the man is as fit as a fiddle with us," and that the Russian document "just makes us laugh."

IF ALL REGISTERED

City Voter List Could Be Doubled

Registration of all eligible voters would just about double Victoria's voters' list, city clerk Frank Hunter said Tuesday.

Speaking at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce civic affairs group, Mr. Hunter said only 1,538 resident electors registered this year, while on the basis of the 18,000 proprietary electors on the rolls—there should have been more than 10 times that number registered. Resident electors are non-property owners who are over 21, British subjects, and who have a six-months' residence qualification.

Mr. Hunter pointed out that many persons who are buying property in Victoria lose their voting privilege through failing to have their sale agreements registered.

U.S. BEING BLAMED AS ORGANIZER

Invasion Rumors Sweep Cuba

HAVANA (Reuters) — A new wave of scare reports about an imminent invasion is sweeping this Cuban capital.

Government leaders, from Premier Fidel Castro down, have been making regular television appearances to urge renewed vigilance against landings by "Yankee mercenaries."

The Cuban people have been told that the invasion could come from Florida, Guatemala or Nicaragua. All the organs of Cuban propaganda have launched a fresh offensive against the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency as the organizer of the alleged new bid to overthrow Castro.

Havana has been buzzing for weeks with rumors forecasting the date for a major landing—a date which, cynical Cubans note, is put back as successive forecasts "D-Days" come and go without incident.

The sceptical also recall that the Castro regime has a record of creating invasion scares in the interests of national solidarity.

The biggest previous scare was in January of this year, when alarm cries about a forthcoming "Yankee invasion" reached an almost hysterical pitch. The mood then contrasted sharply with the much cooler and more business-like manner the government adopted when the invasion finally did come in April.

NEW ARRESTS

The public has found some support for the present rumors in the fact that a new wave of arrests by security police was started recently.

Fresh emphasis, too, is being placed on the vigilante groups known as Committees for Defence of the Revolution, formed last Sept. 28.

The immediate result of these warning calls is noticeably increased tension, particularly in the capital. Although bomb explosions during the night now are rare, sudden bursts of automatic fire—usually by over-keen militiamen—are so frequent that they pass without comment.

The Cuban navy's frigates regularly patrol offshore near Havana, but aircraft are rarely seen. The six Soviet-designed MIG jet fighters which dramatically appeared on July 25 during spaceman Yuri Gagarin's visit have not been seen since.

Tuesday night in the UN General Assembly debate in New York, Cuban Foreign Minister Paul Roa charged that the United States was training anti-Castro revolutionaries and smuggling into Cuba arms and explosives to commit "acts of terrorism."

Roa avoided detailed elaboration of the charges.

The state department termed them "totally unfounded" and "ridiculous." U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson told the assembly "the United States is not planning any intervention or aggression in Cuba."

Roa declared he would present proof of his contentions when a Cuban charge of aggression by the United States comes up for assembly debate.

Religion and City Jobs

MOST VICTORIANS MUST have been surprised to learn that applicants are asked to state their religion when they seek City Hall jobs.

That surprise has changed to shock and anger by the turn discussion has taken.

Alderman Michael Griffin, bringing the issue to light last month, very properly urged that the offending question be removed from the official application form.

Mayor Scurrah, approving its removal, has taken the correct attitude. His religion, he says, is nobody's business but his own. What applies to the mayor should apply also to the least important applicant for a city job. Freedom to worship as one chooses, or not to worship at all if the individual is so inclined, is a fundamental right.

A man's or woman's denomination should not be a qualification for appointment to a city job.

Nor should discussion of the question give anyone licence to launch a theological attack in council on an upright and praiseworthy organization.

Alderman the Rev. Dr. Lewis McLean has seen fit to argue in council that the opinion of the Unitarians, whom he labels a small and noisy minority of anti-Christian character, should not be heard.

In the first place, who is he denigrating? As readers of this newspaper and many others know, the Unitarians are a group of people who extend the finest form of charity to those in need throughout the world. They make no exceptions on grounds of race, color or creed in the help they give. They treat people in the high tradition of the Golden Rule, and they accept as a practising obligation the doctrine that they are their brother's keeper.

In the second place, if the former moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, speaking as an alderman denies a voice to any group because it is not Christian, does he then reject any case presented by members of the Jewish faith in this community, the Hindus, East Indians of other religions, and the Chinese who may pray to the gods of their fathers?

Is only a chosen section of the taxpaying community to be heard? And heard only when it has received the endorsement of Dr. McLean?

The reverend doctor has used the wrong forum in which to make statements which he may consider satisfactory from his own pulpit. They can never be countenanced in democratic government as long as we believe in the separation of church and state.

Dr. McLean has injected an ugly element into the discussion of an issue aimed at the elimination of an unjustifiable suggestion of discrimination. And in his criticism of the Unitarians he has created a problem with which his own Christian conscience must deal.

Longer School Year

AFTER EXHAUSTIVE STUDY, the Chant commission on British Columbia education brought in specific recommendations on the desirable length of the school year.

It proposed that schools open on September 1, unless this date falls on Saturday, Sunday or Labor Day; the Easter vacation extend from Good Friday to the following Wednesday only, and the school year be lengthened to a minimum of 200 days (instead of the present 190).

In Pasadena, California, the Star-News recently conducted an independent survey to determine the reaction of youth-on-the-street to an 11-month school year.

A majority of the young people interviewed didn't like the idea. This led the Star-News to comment that the reaction was understandable, but that a month's summer vacation, added to holidays at Christmas and Easter, gave the average pupil longer vacations than most adults, who probably needed holidays more.

"The most compelling reason for the 11-month school year," added the newspaper, "is that it would make more economical and efficient use of school facilities in an era when they are unequal to demand. It would also turn out graduates with a great saving in time, a consideration that may come to be of critical importance in the great international competition for trained minds."

And then the Star-News added a point which probably escapes most parents on this continent. It says that the long summer vacation (three months is the term it lists) "originated out of the need a couple of generations ago to put the kids to work on the family farm during the summer."

As a result of the Chant recommendations the time out of school has been contracted for pupils in British Columbia. Perhaps the reasons for further contraction cited in Pasadena could lead to still further shortening of the vacation period here. The family farm in this part of the world does not now make the demand on children it once did.

Mrs. Anna Sprott

THE DEATH OF MRS. ANNA Sprott at the age of 82 brings to a close a life which might well inspire any woman to achievement in public, business or private endeavor. For Mrs. Sprott had three careers and won outstanding success in all of them.

As a businesswoman she was long a guiding influence in the school of commerce which bore her husband's name, and for some time was owner of a Vancouver radio station. It was in women's organizations that she became most widely known, gaining international recognition in the Soroptimist clubs, and country-wide appreciation for her work in IOOE, Business and Professional Women's Clubs and other organizations.

In civic affairs, she sat as an alderman in Vancouver 10 years, and was the first woman to serve as acting mayor. It was in this field that she became a leader in social service, youth work and numerous welfare activities. As a mother, she is survived by two daughters, two grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Hers was a lifetime of activity, of concern for her fellowman, of contribution to the day-to-day progress of her community. She furnished an example of what can be accomplished when ability and willingness are united with character.

With Candy—a Little Spinach

MR. NEWTON M. MINOW, chairman of the United States Federal Communications Commission, whose opinions on the "grey wasteland" of American television are well known, is continuing his campaign for something better from that medium.

Currently he has concentrated on the fare TV provides for his country's children—and for a large number of young Canadians too. He wants the major networks to improve their output for juveniles and he has suggested that they take turns presenting a daily one-hour afternoon show of "the best you can produce for youngsters."

Mr. Minow has told the broadcasters that their season of decision is at hand.

"No other group of men and women in the United States," he says, "will make decisions which sweep with more penetrating impact upon the American mind. Your decisions will affect more children's hours in America, for good or evil, than the teachers in our schools, and I say with some shame, than many parents."

The FCC chairman understands fully the fact that children may not, initially at least, prefer "good" programs to the inferior type to which they have become accustomed. This is not to be wondered at. He explains the juvenile reaction by outlining the results of a private poll he conducted among boys and girls of 10 and 12.

He says "99 per cent of the respondents preferred candy to spinach, 92 per cent preferred the movies to Sunday school, and 79 per cent preferred to stay home and watch the game shows and soap operas on TV rather than go to school."

But, he pointed out, while there was nothing wrong with giving children candy occasionally, they also required their spinach. And he offered the observation to network men who are concerned over the economics of producing programs which must have broad appeal. "I will never concede that improved business and improved children's programming cannot co-exist."

Many thoughtful parents will applaud Mr. Minow's viewpoint. They should applaud with more than usual enthusiasm because, during his term in office, he has made the FCC something more than a technical supervisor. He has appreciated his ability to make the telecasters sit up and take notice.

BECAUSE OF A CHANGING PATTERN OF TRADE

Canada Must Soon Face Some Wrenching Decisions

AS Britain begins to negotiate for membership in the European Common Market Canada is left with a series of options. Even if the negotiations fail, as they may, and Britain is excluded from the prosperous Six, still Canada must face some wrenching decisions since its present trade pattern cannot be maintained in any case. The Canadian government's first option is to dissuade Britain from entering the Common Market. This is trying to do by appeals to Commonwealth loyalty and threats of grave consequences if the existing preferential tariff system should be seriously impaired. But by the act of opening the negotiations with continental Europe the British government has shown that it will not be deterred by Canadian or other Commonwealth protests. The first stage in the campaign to keep Britain out of the Common Market is a failure.

Secondly, the Canadian government could renew the campaign possibly with a better chance of success, by reversing a former decision and accepting the British government's offer of free trade between Canada and Britain. Thus Canada could assure Britain a larger Canadian market to compensate it for trade lost in Europe. Clearly the Canadian government will not consider this possibility when it is steadily moving to restrict British imports already.

Special Deal

Thirdly, Canada could try to enter the Common Market itself by some special sort of deal, as an associate member with limited obligations of tariff reduction, but this attempt is hardly worth making.

While the Common Market countries are devising special deals for their former colonies and some small neutral European nations, they would never consider similar terms for a great industrial and exporting nation like Canada, even if Canada sought them.

Fourth, Canada could turn away from the British and European markets and seek a customs union or free trade area with the United States.

That the United States would accept such an arrangement (though some of its statesmen have suggested it) is extremely doubtful when American policy is to unite instead of dividing the Atlantic region. That Canadian nationality could long survive a complete bilateral economic union with its giant neighbor is still more doubtful.

Increased Difficulty

At any rate, no Canadian political party has favored this retreat into North America which, apart from political consequences to Canada, would split the Atlantic world into rival economic blocks and increase the difficulty of unifying it later on.

Fifth, Canada could try to maintain a middle position as Britain joined Europe. Refusing to enter either a European or a North American bloc, this country could attempt to make new trade bargains with the Common Market and with the United States by reciprocal tariff reductions, preferably open to outside countries if they were interested.

Such a policy would infringe the non-discriminatory principles of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade but they are being widely violated anyway by many signatories, including Canada. Besides, GATT is stalled in its long Geneva negotiations and, though it may produce another small round of tariff cuts, cannot hope to meet adequately the new situation created by a single trade bloc in Europe.

Through new tariff bargains in Europe and America Canada could secure larger markets but only if it were prepared to import more European and American goods. The United States and Europe will surely demand reciprocal concessions from us if their tariffs are to be reduced in our favor.

That is essentially the problem now being tackled in another form at the present GATT negotiations. The non-European members of the agreement, led by the United States, are trying to prevent the Common Market from erecting a relatively high common external tariff against the rest of the world. To succeed in their objective, however, they must be prepared to offer the Common Market what it considers satisfactory and enlarged admission to their markets.

The outcome of this struggle at Geneva cannot be foreseen but there is no sign that the Canadian government is ready to reduce tariffs either to forestall a high Common Market tariff or for any other reason. Canadian policy is moving in an opposite direction toward import restrictions, either overt through tariffs or covert through tax devices and currency devaluation.

The final option for Canada is to begin now the complex, difficult and long task of merging the trade of North America, Europe and any other regions that care to participate in a broad Free World Economic Community superseding the principles of GATT.

Lengthy Process

Obviously no such enterprise, unparalleled in history and revolutionary in result, could be achieved overnight by some simple agreement. Even if the ultimate objective were accepted now and the preliminary foundation laid, it would be many years before the full superstructure of maximum trade with minimum restriction could be erected. But a start could be made, a target set, and Canada, because of its unique position as a Commonwealth, a North American and a major trading nation, is uniquely fitted to lead the way.

Leadership of this kind cannot be expected from the present Canadian government, which regards the whole project as moonshine. To reject it, how-

Wider Trade

Ottawa Citizen

IF Britain joins the European Common Market, as seems entirely probable, further significant developments are to be looked for. Britain is the principal partner in the other big trans-Atlantic economic bloc, the European Free Trade Association, or "Outer Seven." It will be surprising if the other members are not drawn into the Common Market group, in one way or another.

Some may stop short of full membership, because of the political as well as economic implications involved. Sweden, Switzerland and Austria all have national pledges to neutrality. But this situation does not rule out the possibility of associate membership.

Will these remarkable new trade patterns become wider still and extend across the Atlantic? The possibility is no to be lightly dismissed. The Austrian ambassador to Canada, Dr. Eugene Buresch, made an interesting comment in Montreal the other day when discussing his own country's approach to the Common Market. He said:

We have to work out with Switzerland and Sweden a basis for a special relationship to the Common Market. Canada is being put into a similar situation with the eventual entry of Britain into the Common Market, and it is to be hoped that the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development can be developed gradually into a free trading area of all the free market economies with the inclusion of Canada and the United States. Such a vast market is a prerequisite for the preservation of prosperity and for further expansion of the free economies of the world we live in.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

ever, and to obstruct Britain's entry into the Common Market provides no answer to Canada's problem.

If Britain joins the Common Market Canada's exports to Britain and Europe will be profoundly affected, some of them adversely when we have lost all or part of our British tariff preferences. And if, on the other hand, Canada and the overseas Commonwealth nations persuade Britain to stay out of Europe, Britain will certainly ask compensation for the resulting damage to its European trade.

Final Decision

At the point of final decision Britain will say to Canada: "If we accept losses of trade in Europe for your supposed benefit, how much of them will you make good by increasing your purchases from us?"

The Canadian government is not prepared to answer this grim question when its policy is to restrict British imports. Instead, it pretends that no such question need arise, that the real question before us is solely whether Britain shall create a dangerous new situation by joining Europe or leave the existing satisfactory situation unchanged.

That, of course, is not the real question. For if Britain remains outside the Common Market the existing situation would remain quite unsatisfactory for our exporters and it would not long continue anyway. For by one means or another, either by expanding its exports to Europe or to the Commonwealth, or both, Britain must arrest its economic decline. It must basically alter and swell the currents of its trade even if it must damage Canadian trade temporarily and permanently alter the existing pattern. It cannot commit commercial suicide for our convenience.

Whether it can square this daunting circle and join Europe without serious damage to Commonwealth trade will be considered in the next article.

YOU, TOO, CAN BE ANONYMOUS

What It May Come To, or, Let's Not Be Indiscriminate

"MY name, sir, is J. League Tome. I am a lawyer."

"Ah, yes, Mr. Tome. And you wish to apply for employment here in the city hall?"

"No, not for myself. I represent a citizen of Victoria who is applying through me."

"Hmmm. A little irregular. Applicants usually appear in person. However I think we may go ahead. Now, if you will just provide me with answers to this questionnaire . . . Name of the applicant?"

"Hmmm. I don't believe I am prepared to give the applicant's name. Much can be divulged by a given name or surname and there always exists the possibility of discrimination. I must refuse to answer that question, reference Section 3, the Fair Employment Practices Act."

"But . . . Well, I don't know. There's been so much talk of that sort of thing lately . . . You may have a point. Perhaps we'd just better leave that aside for the moment. Address of the applicant?"

"It is well known that certain sections of the city carry with them specific information as to the economic status of the inhabitants. To tell you where my client lives could easily imply certain facts regarding my client, and that could lead to discrimination. I must decline to answer you."

"Yes, but . . . Oh well. If you say that's the law . . . The applicant's sex?"

"These are days when there is still considerable discrimination against women in certain lines of employment. It may equally be said that for other positions there is discrimination against men. Obviously, to reveal the sex of my client must inevitably lead to the risk of discrimination. I must ask you to excuse me on that score."

"Age?"

"Quite impossible, sir. Nothing could be more likely to lead to a discriminatory attitude on the part of potential employers than a knowledge of the age of the applicant."

"Well, uh, how about educational qualifications?" Surely . . .

"Too high an educational achievement could well lead to a belief that my client would not long remain in a modest position on the city's staff. On the other hand too low a qualification could not fail to influence the judgment of those concerned with my client's hiring. These are only two grounds of many on which educational discrimination could be exercised. Because of this I must decline to give you the requested information."

"I don't seem to have anything down on this application blank at all. But the next question refers to previous experience, and . . .

"My dear sir, nothing on the application form could lead to more risk of discrimination than this particular topic. Why, a full disclosure of my client's experience could readily indicate innumerable facts of ability, character, energy, persistence, achievement and so on—or the lack of them—any one of which could arouse discrimination. Surely you do not expect me to lay my client open to rank discrimination on snap judgment? I stand firmly on the relevant sections of the Act in this matter."

"Well, the next question is . . . I . . . uh, hardly know how to ask it. What is the applicant's, uh, er—that is, what is the applicant's, uh, relig . . . religion?"

"My dear sir, are you jesting? Do you mean to sit there and . . .

"No, no, no. Just a matter of form. I, uh, I quite realize your position. We'll just go on to the next item. Remuneration expected?"

"Such an enquiry is obviously in contravention of both the letter and the spirit of the law. To reveal such information could lay my client open to the most serious discrimination, most serious indeed."

"Well, the last question deals with the health of the applicant. Are you prepared . . .

"Certainly not. This could involve facts which might be used in a most discriminatory way to prejudice the possible employment of my client. I must refuse, on legal grounds."

"That is the end of the questionnaire. It remains completely blank, as you can see. However, I shall submit it with the others and let you know the decision of the authorities as soon as possible."

"Very good, sir. I am sure my client will receive every consideration, and I am happy that the law has been complied with in every respect. Good day, sir, and thank you."

Wings Linked, Flying

WE watched geese migrating last weekend. To us, in the October quiet of Cigarmakers' Bay, came their distant, noisy quacking, the endless argument of their kind in flight.

We picked them out, a serrated dark line in the blue of the afternoon sky, their numbers beyond counting, saw them flying high over the mountains south of the lake, and lost them as the line thinned with the miles. Back to us came their querulous controversy, and then only the sound of water on the shore.

Stott

I first saw Canada geese when I was a boy of eight, a small visitor to a lonely and unsuccessful little ranch on the north end of the Queen Charlotte's Graham Island.

Seeing them in flight now, my mind goes back to that single interlude of wild country living—the only occasion when I have tried to hunt. They loomed me a .22 at the small ranch and tried to teach me how to shoot it. Through most of a summer month I blazed away at an old and leaky dishpan propped against a stump 50 to 60 feet from me. When I had reached that stage of proficiency at which I hit the dishpan more often than I missed in 10 shots, I was taken goose hunting.

There were no great preparations. About 100 yards from the log cabin where we stayed, our friends were draining a shallow lake. The geese came in at evening and rested on the mudflats. By morning the flats were alive with them.

My uncle took me the morning of the shoot. We rose before dawn, crept to a ditch and cautiously came up on the resting geese. I didn't know then, and doubt if I would have been impressed by the sporting rule against shooting a sitting bird.

All I knew was that I had one chance and one only with my .22. If my first shot didn't score, the geese would be up and away before I had time for a second.

I shot and missed. There was no second try. After that one sharp report, the sky was full of the big birds, moving out. I was happy enough to see them all going.

We wandered back to the cabin with a concocted story that I'd almost got one. That was true enough. The ground was so full of geese it was a marvel I'd missed at all.

So I think of Silver Lake, the log cabin and the small, unsuccessful ranch when I see Canada geese now—and feel a happy, guiltless satisfaction that nothing I have done has in any way harmed the birds. It adds to the friendliness of the memories.

They're part of a distant summer, the only time I shot a rifle, the only time I drove cows home, steering them away from the softer parts of the mudflats with a long stick and enjoying a sense of mastery over animals that scared me.

I wondered if the geese we saw last weekend had rested on the flats coming south, and I wondered where they were going and if they ever complete the argument that continues as they fly.

I wondered, too, about the small ranch, long since abandoned, and if there are many more like it in British Columbia today, where a boy of eight can learn to shoot a .22 inaccurately and feel close to the wilderness.

There must be some, I guess. But the way the wilderness is being moved back that is a wholesome life not very many generations of boys will have in future.

LONDON LETTER

The Great Trunk Murders

LONDON—Everyone has a story . . . The fellow who was standing beside me in our local pub, for instance.

He comes in every now and then, but I'd never exchanged much conversation with him. The trouble is he works for M15, Britain's secret service, and that puts a damper on the most interesting sort of talk you could have with him. His lips are sealed.

But in his early days he used to be in the Brighton police and he's not sworn to secrecy about that. Which was fortunate, because somebody started talking about the famous "trunk murders" and it transpired that it was he who had discovered one of the bodies.

I knew about the trunk murders only vaguely but now, thanks to our friend, here's what happened.

Back in 1934 Britain had her first ever trunk murder, to be followed quickly by the second.

At the left luggage department of Brighton railway station an unclaimed trunk was opened, to reveal a woman's torso. Our friend was among those assigned to the job of finding the head, arms and legs and eventually, it was hoped, the murderer.

One Sunday at one o'clock he was on duty at the police station when a man who let rooms came in and said he was suspicious about a trunk left by one of his roomers, who had skipped without paying his bill. By this time all Britain was very trunk-conscious and our friend's first inclination was to dismiss the man as just another crank.

But he remembered his police training to leave no avenue unexplored, and went along with him to the rooming house. In the basement was a large cabin trunk, of the type that stands upright with a domed top. And when he opened it there sure enough, he thought at first, were the missing head, arms and legs.

But on closer look he saw that it was a whole body. Here was a second trunk murder.

By three o'clock that afternoon the Sunday Express was out on the street with a scoop—the stop-press news of Trunk Murder No. 2.

Our friend was on the carpet for slipping the news to the local Express man, but the reporter had just been a smart newspaperman, outside the rooming house among the press boys when the trunk was brought out to be loaded into the police wagon.

He noticed they had difficulty in lifting it up and had to get the help of another hefty policeman. He played a hunch that it was too heavy to be just the missing parts of a body.

The police never found anyone to whom they could link the first trunk murder but the second one was a different matter. The roomer who had skipped was brought to trial for the murder of the prostitute who had been living with him. It was an open-and-shut case.

But it turned out to be too cut-and-dried. The prosecution didn't bother to line up much ammunition against the accused's defence that he had come home to find the woman murdered.

Result: a verdict of not guilty.

Popular Names Can Be Misleading

Last week the Strawberry tree, Arbutus unedo, was mentioned in this column, and some gardeners were intrigued by its common name while others questioned its relationship to our native Madrona.

As is the case with most popular names, this one is not too accurate. Although the fruits of Arbutus unedo somewhat resemble strawberries in appearance, the similarity ends there.

Hilda

The fruits are mealy, not unpleasant in taste, but lack any distinct flavor. They ripen late November into December at the same time as the current season's flowers are open.

The relationship to our native Madrona, Arbutus menziesii, is suspected when the strawberry-tree starts peeling its outer bark, revealing the smooth surface characteristic to the Madrona. This takes place on even young trees of about two feet in height.

Leaves of A. unedo are smaller and more elliptic than those of the Madrona, but the urn-shaped white flowers are similar, though drooping rather than erect. A variety with deep pink flowers is also known.

Both species are native to coastal regions adjacent to a large body of water. Our Arbutus is found only on the Pacific Coast from southern B.C. to northern California, and the Strawberry-tree on the south coast of Ireland and, according to some authorities, the coast of Portugal.

Arbutus unedo will probably grow to about 10 or 12 feet here, preferring the company and shelter of other trees and shrubs. It flowers at an early age, and with its shiny evergreen leaves it makes a point of interest and beauty throughout the year.

'Shotgun' Vaccine Used In Flu Fight Says Doctor

You're taking a chance when you take a 'flu shot, according to Dr. Donald Whitley, president of the Victoria Medical Society.

A 'flu shot is usually composed of four or five different strains and only if the correct strain mixes with your type of 'flu will the shot be good. If it does not mix it is possible to pick up 'flu of another type, warned the doctor.

"Influenza vaccine is a sort of shotgun type prescription," said Dr. Whitley. "It is not even a true vaccine."

"Influenza used to be called la grippe," the doctor stated, "and it is something we have with us every winter."

Dr. Whitley doesn't think there is any indication Victoria is in for any outbreak of epidemic proportions.

'War on Hoffa' Vetoed

NEW YORK (AP)—Organized labor's leadership, having little appetite for an all-out fight against Hoffa's powerful Teamsters, appeared unwilling today to declare open war on James R. Hoffa's controversial catch-all truck drivers' organization.

After overwhelmingly voting down a proposal to end a four-year Teamsters' exile for alleged corruption, the AFL-CIO executive council met to consider forming a rival union to try to snatch members away from Hoffa.

Hoffa responded to the challenge at Portland, Ore., by saying: "We'll meet them anywhere, any time, and we'll come out on top."

Hoffa told the Western Conference of Teamsters' Union that the Teamsters are not asking to return to the AFL-CIO. If they ever did so, he added, it would be with the understanding that they could run their own affairs and organize workers without worrying about jurisdiction.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, made a counter-drive against the 1,500,000-member Teamsters' look attractive by reporting here that some 100 of the nearly 900 Teamsters' locals have applied to quit Hoffa's outfit and come into the main labor federation.

However, Meany's fellow

TIBETANS STILL RESIST

SIMLA, India (Reuters) — About 40 Tibetan Khamba tribesmen and 20 Red Chinese soldiers were killed when they clashed near Pamer in western Tibet during the last week of September, according to reliable reports reaching this north Indian town today.

The reports said about 20,000 Khambas were still fighting the Chinese in western Tibet.

It was the second report in recent weeks of such clashes in Tibet.

New Mill for Alta.

EDMONTON (CP) — Construction of a $38,000,000 newsprint plant at Whitecourt, Alta., will begin Thursday, Gordon D. McNab, president of Alberta West Newsprint Mills, Limited, said during the weekend. He said production of newsprint, expected to reach 300 tons a day, would begin "within 22 months".

Caldough Trial Opens, 900 Exhibits Planned

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Crown intends to present nearly 900 exhibits in its case against three men and three companies charged with stock fraud and conspiracy. Crown counsel George Murray told an assize court jury Tuesday at the opening of the trial.

George Caldough, Roland Smith, Leonard Udell and three companies face eight counts of conspiracy and fraud involving an alleged $385,000. Mr. Murray said in outlining the Crown's case.

He said he would call a number of witnesses and added that the trial might be a lengthy one.

Among witnesses, he said, will be former office employees, accountants, government officials and others, who will give evidence in regard to company operations in Vancouver, Whitehorse and elsewhere.

Mr. Murray told the jury that some of the evidence will deal with what he termed a "vast amount" of literature. He said four witnesses from various parts of the United States will not be able to be present to give evidence in person, but evidence they gave at the earlier preliminary hearing will be read in court.

He said this would involve reading of some 300 pages of testimony.

Caldough, a former North Vancouver promoter who was arrested in England and returned to Canada to face trial, came into public prominence here about two years ago when actor Errol Flynn died suddenly while being entertained by Caldough.

Most of today's court proceedings were devoted to selection of a 12-man jury, which Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan described jury duty as "one of the responsibilities of living in a democratic society."

POSTAL REMINDER

It's That Time Again

Now is the time to start thinking about Christmas mailing. Every year the post offices are clogged with parcels posted at the last minute, and many people run the risk of having their Christmas gifts arrive at their destinations after it is all over.

The Canada Post Office urges the public to post overseas parcels as early as possible, to ensure accommodation on the last steamers leaving before the Christmas deadline.

The deadline dates are shown below. These dates apply for the posting of mail to Armed Forces personnel in the areas shown. Dates shown for Europe also apply for troops in the Middle East and the Congo.

B.C. Labor Laws Rapped At IWA Parley in Miami

By AB KENT

A Victoria unionist said today B.C.'s anti-labor Bills 42 and 43 were condemned with well-known U.S. labor bills at International Woodworkers of America convention in Miami last week.

Edwin Haw, financial secretary of Victoria Local 1-118 of the IWA, attended the convention with four other local delegates, Tom Ainsley, Murray Drew, J. W. Hess and F. H. Hilton.

Mr. Haw said the recurring themes of the meeting were for greater organization of the American labor force and countering the fascism of reactionaries with political action by the labor movement.

Both labor speeches and special addresses by elected representatives such as Oregon's Senator Wayne Morse warned of the danger to freedoms in such organizations as the John Birch Society, Mr. Haw said.

Alexander Barkan, deputy director of COPE, the committee on political education established by the AF of L and CIO, said the Birch society aims to establish a fascist state.

Mr. Haw said Senator Morse, "an extremely wise man," made this point perfectly clear by inference "without naming any names".

This type of state, through absolute control, may be beneficial to the production of goods and services, but would destroy freedoms such as collective bargaining, the senator said.

Keynote speaker Al Hartung, president of the 80,000-member union, called for the repeal of the U.S. Landrum-Griffin and Taft-Hartley bills, along with Bills 42 and 43 in British Columbia, and other restrictive legislation in Newfoundland.

The IWA is battling reactionaries in Congress, the state governments and in the labor movement itself, all at the same time, he said.

"It is time we solved our difficulties in the house of labor. What is needed is strong and fearless leadership at the top to bring this about. Time is running short.

The reactionary elements

W. GERMAN COALITION MOVES STEP CLOSER

BONN (UPI)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer reached general agreement with the Free Democratic Party Tuesday night on a coalition government.

About the only outstanding issue is the line-up for a coalition cabinet, with the Free Democrats slated to discuss among themselves on Thursday the final issue of whether to join a government headed by the 85-year-old chancellor.

A communique issued after a three and one-half meeting between Adenauer and Free Democratic leader Erich Mende said, "general agreement" was reached on domestic questions, including finance, economics and social policies.

Herring Fishermen Strike Monday

Herring fishermen members of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union have voted 98 per cent to cease fishing at noon next Monday to back-up union demands for a return to the herring reduction price of $13 per ton.

The vote was taken by secret ballot.

The existing two-year agreement, which expires Monday, called for a price of $13 per ton. However, members claim that while the agreement was signed in October, 1959, the companies "locked out" the fishermen from Dec. 16, 1959, to Nov. 18, 1960, thereby forcing a price cut of $4.20 per ton.

Union officials claim the price of herring meal now stands at $129.50 per ton, the same as that quoted two years ago when the price of $13 was set in the two-year contract.

This little ANGLIA gives you a real big boot

With 13 cubic feet of luggage space

Whether you call it a boot or a trunk, Anglia has the biggest in the little car field. Now we don't want to enter the controversy about a car's engine belonging in the front or back—all we do know is that Anglia puts the trunk in the back to give you more luggage space. Sounds kind of basic doesn't it? Yet, it's just an example of the "extras" that are standard equipment on Anglia. Try a few more! Fuel gauge as standard equipment! Foam padded seats! Full no-draught rear windows for straight through ventilation! Rear mounted gas tank as an extra safety precaution. Double arm rests and sun visors. North American type nuts and bolts. Add to these Anglia's rally-rousing performance in endurance tests 'round the world and its low price and low operating costs. Finally throw in Anglia's low backed playbody appearance that "just happens" to give more passenger headroom and keeps the back window clear, and you suddenly realize ANGLIA is the BIG little car in the little car field. If you still have doubts, try it! See your Anglia dealer for a free demonstration. He may talk about boots, bonnets and kilometres per gallon but he talks a real good price too.

SIDELINE SLANTS BY Doug Peden

What are you going to serve up to puck patrons after you have started them off on dessert?

That was one of the problems that coach Hal Laycoe couldn't ignore Tuesday as he chased his Portland Buckaroos through the final workout of their training camp at Esquimalt Sports Centre and then herded them aboard the ferry for Tsawwassen.

Manager and coach of Victoria Cougars two years back, Hal moved his talents to Portland last season as the Rose City returned to the Western Hockey League after a nine-year absence.

Portland fans responded as if they had a nine-year hockey hunger. They flocked to their plush new, multi-windowed arena and made a shambles out of former WHL attendance records. And the Bucks did their part. Picked by a lot of people to finish bogged down in the second division, they charged down the home stretch like Citation to finish in second place. Then they handed Portlanders the dessert—a WHL playoff crown.

They may have done too well. It would be nothing new in the hockey books if the Rose City patrons have been spoiled by a championship in their first season. Having tasted the best before learning to support a team merely struggling to grab a playoff spot, it wouldn't be surprising if they will be quick to ridicule anything but a winning club. It has happened before in other towns.

Did Exhibition Provide Preview?

In fact, Laycoe ears may already have heard sounds of the future.

"For the first time in Portland I heard derisive remarks from the fans," said Hal after the Buckaroos had dropped a 7-3 exhibition decision to Toronto Maple Leafs. "Here we had been leading a better-conditioned National Hockey League team 3-2 until the roof fell in during the last eight minutes and they criticized their own club. I hope it wasn't an omen."

Of course, one way to keep everybody happy is to produce a winning club. But Laycoe sounded as gloomy as a college football coach Tuesday as he surveyed this season's prospects.

"I don't know where they got the idea that I consider our club 25 per cent stronger than last year," he moaned. "What I said was that we were 25 per cent better than at this time last year."

"That was when my goalie (Don Head) was 216 pounds and 20 pounds overweight, Dale Rolfe hadn't arrived, Larry Leach had a broken collarbone, Gordie Fashoway had cracked ribs, Ron Matthews had a bad charley-horse, Jack Bionda was suspected of jaundice and couldn't even skate, and we hadn't acquired Bill Davidson. Right now, I'd say we were 25 per cent weaker than last year's club."

Complacency Rearing Ugly Head

"And," he added, "there's one player hanging around our team that I can't get rid of, no matter how I try. He's a guy called 'complacency'."

"He keeps popping up all over the place. He's always around at workouts and he's even going back to Portland with us. Even if I can get rid of him, I think we'll still need some luck to stay near the top this season. There are too many good clubs in the league."

Despite his professed pessimism, a lot of people around the WHL expect Laycoe's crew to be running near the top from the time the Bucks open their season this week against the Los Angeles Blades, nee Victoria Cougars.

And speaking of luck, one has to wonder if the Blades aren't flirting with some of the bad variety, in their choice of dates to bring hockey back to California. They make their debut before the major-league-minded Los Angeles Kings on Friday, which just happens to be the 13th.

EXTRA SHOTS: Buckaroos are well on the way to another great season at the gate. More than 2,000 season tickets have already been sold for Portland home games and the count could climb to around 2,500 by the time the Bucks open at home.

Laycoe, who set something of a record for Victoria hockey record by showing a small profit and paying all bills promptly in his season with the Cougars, has nothing but praise for the Esquimalt Sports Centre. "It's the finest community project I've seen," he said of the Centre, which he also praised as a training site.

Frank Lucchesi, hustling little infighter with Victoria's former Western International League clubs, managed Chattanooga Lookouts to the Southern Association championship this season.

HARVEY VS. WATSON

'Weak Sisters' In NHL Opener

BOSTON (AP)—The National Hockey League gets its 45th season under way tonight as last year's two weakest teams—Boston Bruins and New York Rangers—meet at Boston Garden.

Both teams have new coaches and one of them will be facing a team he used to run himself.

Former Montreal Canadiens' great Doug Harvey will be at the helm for New York as player-coach, while Bruins, last season's last-place team, will be guided by Phil Watson, who handled the Rangers up to two years ago.

New York has four rookies in the ranks and Boston six. Harvey, nearly 38, will be aided by New York general manager Muzz Patrick on the bench until the nine-time NHL all-star defenceman gets to know his players better.

The rest of the league opens later this week. Detroit Red Wings entertain the Toronto Maple Leafs Thursday night, while the Bruins and Rangers play a return engagement in New York. The Rangers visit Montreal and Boston goes to Toronto Saturday, and Chicago Black Hawks, the Stanley Cup champions, open at home Sunday against Detroit.

WILLIAMS JOINS BRUINS

Boston made a last-minute addition to its roster by calling up centre Tom Williams of the Kingston Frontenacs, Bruins' farm team in the Eastern Professional League.

Williams, a 170-pounder, was a member of the United States team that won the Olympic hockey championship at Squaw Valley, Calif., in 1960.

Jean Ratelle, Bob Cunningham, Vic Hatfield and George Konik are the Ranger rookies. The Bruins are counting heavily on big Orland Kurtenbach, picked up in the NHL draft from New York. The 25-year-old rookie has been named

Assistant Moves To Top of Ladder

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Patriots fired coach Lou Saban Tuesday night, and named assistant Mike Holovak to handle the American Football League club.

Holovak is a former head coach at Boston College. Saban was not present when the club announced its decision.

DOES PITCHERS' UNION CONDONE 'HARD LABOR'?

TOKYO (AP)—Righthander Kazuhisa Iano set a record of 41 victories in a season as the Nishitetsu Lions beat the Toei Flyers 4-2 in Japan's Pacific Baseball League.

The previous record of 40 was established in 1939 by Victor Starlin, a White Russian who played with the Tokyo Giants, and equalled in 1942 by Jiro Noguchi of Tokyo's Taiyo Whales. Iano, who has appeared in 76 games, has lost 13. Lions have four games remaining this season.

'WHERE DID HE GIT TO?'

Sure tackle turned into sure miss when Dick Schemel of Rochester (Minn.) Lourdes bore down on Jim Hoeschler of La Crosse Aquinas High School. Hoeschler, who had just caught pass, took only escape route available—up. Schemel, it turned out, had all the right moves but he missed one thing—the ball carrier. (AP Wirephoto.)

Comets in High Gear; Canucks May Need Aid

(Times News Service)

Spokane Comets were expected to do a little streaking around the Western Hockey League, but their pre-season pace is still something of a surprise.

Comets scored their sixth straight exhibition victory at Prince George Tuesday night, nipping Vancouver Canucks, 4-3, in their last outing before the Western Hockey League season opens Friday.

For the Canucks, it was the seventh loss in eight pre-season games and left indications they'll need some defensive strengthening to rate as a contender in the WHL season, which they open at home against the Comets Friday.

TORRID TRIO

Gerry Brisson, Max Meklik and Bev Bell formed the most potent line for the Comets, accounting for all Spokane scoring and getting three of the four goals within a minute and 41 seconds in the opening period. Brisson scored two, Meklik got one goal and three assists, and Bell counted one goal.

Canuck scorers were Barrie Ross, with two, and Wayne Hall.

Playing-coach Phil Maloney, Larry Popelin and rookie Paul Andrea formed the best Vancouver line, but Canucks as a whole didn't display any finishing power around the net.

HAMILTON SHINES

At Chilliwack, San Francisco Seals put up a strong defence in front of a rookie netminder and shut out Seattle Totems 2-0.

Nick Mikoski and Don Hogan scored the Seal goals, both coming before five minutes of the first period had passed.

Then Don Hamilton, on skates for the second time this season, and rookie Jim McLeod put on a spectacular goal-tending display. Hamilton kicking out 22 shots for his shutout and McLeod stopping 17 in the Seattle net.

Hamilton, a Victoria product, is filling in for veteran Bev Bentley, who was knocked out of action with a head injury last week.

STAMPS SHARP

At Kimberley, Calgary Stampers whipped the Kimberley Dynamiters of the amateur Western International League 8-0.

Only spectacular play by goalie Bob Wardle of the Dynamiters kept the score from mounting even higher. Wardle drew the applause of the 1,000 fans in Kimberley's new arena frequently as he kicked out 55 shots in all. Norm Johnson, Bert Fizzell, Cliff Bristow, Ron Leopold, Jimmy Brown, Don Wilson, Gord Vejpava and Lou Janowski scored a goal apiece.

The Stampers skated hard and their passing clicked well. They appeared much stronger than Spokane and Los Angeles Blades, who played an exhibition game at Kimberley earlier.

HALTER STILL WAITING TO HEAR FROM LIONS

WINNIPEG (CP)—Commissioner Sydney Halter of the Canadian Football League said Tuesday he will withhold comment on a planned protest by British Columbia Lions until he receives it.

General Manager Herb Capozzi of the Lions said in Regina he intends a protest in connection with the Lions' 24-20 loss to Winnipeg Blue Bombers Saturday. The protest centres around a field goal by Winnipeg.

Imported Players Prove Costly Item

TORONTO (CP)—The Eastern Canada Professional Soccer League finished a "couple of bucks" in the black on its 1961 operation, league president Harold Ballard said Tuesday, even though some individual teams fared badly.

Total attendance at 18 league games and six playoff matches at Toronto's Varsity Stadium was 145,479—an average of 6,061. Crowds in Montreal and Hamilton, however, were below that level.

Montreal Cantalia has already admitted to a deficit. Cantalia vice-president Severo Sylvestre said Monday after his team won the league championship here that the deficit will be close to $45,000.

"This isn't even close to the amount lost by our other professional team in Montreal (Concordia), which lost more than $200,000," Sylvestre said. He blamed the costs of importing players for the deficits.

Concordia's roster included: Goalkeepers—Joe Amalfitano and Ed Bressoud (San Francisco); Defenders—Bob Aspromonte and Norm Larker (Los Angeles); Forwards—George Williams (Philadelphia) and Dick Gerbert (Cincinnati).

AFTER THE SERIES

Surgery Holds Key to Future

NEW YORK (AP)—For most of the New York Yankees, the main business at hand today was to sit back and wait for their fat World Series checks.

Not so for pitchers Bob Turley and Luis Arroyo. They have operations scheduled, Turley's is important and could send him back on the firing line as one of the top Yankee hurlers. Arroyo has a cyst on his wrist.

"I'm going into hospital this week to have some bone chips removed from my right elbow," Turley, hero of the 1958 world series, said Tuesday.

"This has been a tough year for me. I wouldn't want to have another one like it," Turley won only three games during the American League season. He was on the sidelines with a sore arm in May and was placed on the disabled list.

Arroyo, a relief ace, is heading for his home in Puerto Rico, where his youngest daughter is ailing.

Southpaw hurler Whitey Ford, the Yanks' hero in their series triumph over Cincinnati Reds, said he should last as long as 40-year-old Warren Spahn, of the National League Milwaukee Braves "if I can come up with a new pitch". Ford is 32.

"Right now, the slider is my best pitch," Ford said. "I started working on it three years ago and it took me all this time to get it down pat. My next pitch might be a screwball. I worked on it all last season with Johnny Sain (pitching coach) and Arroyo trying to help me. But I still haven't perfected it."

Perhaps the most envied series record is held by Frankie Crosetti. The one-time shortstop ace of the Yankees who has been a coach ever since his active career ended, has now collected 20 world-series checks.

Vada Pinson, Frank Robinson and Gene Freese, who drove in 200 runs, made 645 hits and connected for 79 home runs between them for the Reds during the season, were series busts. The three of them managed only six hits in 53 times at bat and drove in only four runs, three of them on Robinson's meaningless homer in Monday's 13-5 defeat.

Pitcher Jay Hook was the only Cincinnati player who didn't see any series action but the Yankees didn't use seven of their players—pitchers Bob Turley, Ted Clevenger, Rolfe Sheldon, Hal Reniff and Al Downing and infielders Bob Hale and Joe DeMaestri.

Best series comment came from a National League fan as the Reds trudged off the field after the last game—"We waited all season for them to fold, but they didn't do it until now."

Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris combined for 115 home runs and 270 runs batted in during the season, but got only one home run and two runs batted in for the series. But Hee Lopez took up much of the slack, batting in seven runs although he had but three hits.

The Reds sent 15 pinch-hitters to the plate in five games for a total of only one hit—an .067 average.

All Games at 'Home' For Newest Boot Club

Players on the newest team in the Combination Soccer League, Saturday division, will have a distinct advantage over their opponents this season.

William Head minimum security prison team will play all its games at home. The team, replacing Maycocks, which dropped out following a 1-0 loss Saturday to Navy Firefighters, hosts Royal Roads Saturday at 10:15 a.m.

Weekend results:
Saturday division: Victoria University 3, B.C. Electric 6, Vistas 3, B.C. Forest 2.

FUTURE LIFE THREATENED

Islanders Watch Volcano's Fury

(Times News Service)
CAPE TOWN — The 260 stunned men, women and children of Tristan da Cunha spent a night of agony on a rocky outcrop in the South Atlantic, eyeing the glow of a volcano that threatens to destroy their island homes.

The refugees fled Tuesday aboard two small fishing boats from earthquakes and volcanic eruptions that began Sunday on Tristan da Cunha, a 40-square-mile speck of land halfway between South Africa and South America and one of the most remote islands in the world.

The refugees fought their way through 13 miles of dangerous seas and waded ashore at Nightingale Island, a bleak, uninhabited rock a mile long and three-fourths of a mile wide, to spend the night and await a Dutch liner coming to take them to Capetown.

Here, the islanders will wait while nature decides the fate of the island where they and their forebears have lived in almost complete isolation for 150 years.

Scarcely a dozen of the 260, the total population of Tristan, had ever left the British-ruled island before. Their knowledge of the outside world is based on books, films, radio and hearsay. The populace refused evacuation during the Second World War.

Plans were for a small group of volunteers to stay behind on Nightingale Island when the 9,284-ton Dutch ship Tjalsdane picked up the rest of the refugees this morning.

The volunteers were to watch the course of the eruption—the first in modern times on the island—and return to Tristan if anything is left. They will act as caretakers until the others can return, tending the island's handful of sheep and cattle and its tiny fruit and potato crops.

The 7,640-foot-high volcano, which occupies most of the island, was reported erupting heavily last night, perilously close to the lone settlement of Edinburgh.

NEW U.S. PROPAGANDA CHIEF REVEALS STRATEGY

'We Must Be Understood'

By HAROLD MORRISON
WASHINGTON (CP) — "Americans," says Edward R. Murrow, "have no monopoly over offending people."

"Sure, Americans like to be liked—perhaps more than most other people. Why? I'm not sure. But I think the importance of being liked is exaggerated. It is more important that we be understood."

The former radio and television personality—a tall, heavy-browed individual who rolls up his shirtsleeves and loosens his tie as he works—heads the U.S. Information Agency, the country's most powerful propaganda outlet.

Under previous directors, the agency's big concern was to maintain American prestige abroad and to keep the American image bright in foreign homes.

But Murrow feels there is too much concern over the American image. What he wants to get across is American ideals.

"Foreign policy is not sound if it is to be based on whether we will be liked or not. That's one reason why I stopped taking prestige polls abroad. We want to be understood but I'm not in the least interested whether Mr. Kennedy or Mr. Khrushchev is considered more popular."

heads and there seemed to be reluctance to reach any decision.

"That, I think, is a question that centres as much on moral judgment as on political judgment," said Murrow.

He was sure the United States could always count on Canada, providing Canadians are convinced that the United States will not be reckless or trigger-happy.

As for criticism of American mannerisms abroad, there was little, his agency could do about this, other than provide American travellers with more information about the kind of people they will meet overseas.

"To an extent, every person is a prisoner of his own environment, his racial strains, his experience and his indoctrination. And he reflects this when he mixes with other people."

"Americans may be too impatient; too quick to reach decisions; more inclined to make quick judgments of other people than do those in older cultures. Americans may be too ready to believe that all problems are solvable."

Hurricanes Studied
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States weather bureau said Tuesday it soon will begin a study of the feasibility of using conventional or nuclear bombs to break up hurricanes.

NEW ARAB UNION PLAN PROPOSED BY SYRIA

DAMASCUS (AP) — Syria's new revolutionary regime today proposed that all Arab countries from the Atlantic to the Persian Gulf join in a United Arab States.

The U.A.S. said a 11-point appeal sent to all Arab governments, would be a "voluntary pan-Arab union on a constitutional, decentralized basis."

The proposal obviously was designed to recapture from Egypt's President Nasser the initiative toward Arab unity, a popular cause among Arabs.

"DO YOU KNOW HOW ENJOYABLE CANADIAN PACIFIC MAKES TRAIN TRAVEL NOW?"

"We had almost forgotten how good it is to get away from that 'fenced-in' feeling when we take a trip of any distance."

Mr. & Mrs. D. H. Madsen, 4550 Carson Avenue, Burnaby, B.C.

This time Zella, the kids and I went together from Vancouver to Winnipeg and return, and believe me, we're sold on Canadian Pacific's Family Plan fares and we're glad to be back on the rails with the Company that has the only Scenic Domes in Canada.

We like the space in a train—plenty of room to move around when you feel like stretching your legs. Comfort's another big item too. You just automatically unwind, we found, whether you are enjoying the club-like atmosphere of the Observation Lounge, Dining Room or Skyline Coffee Shop car. (Reclining coach seats with adjustable head and leg rests offer you complete relaxation, too.)

We both agreed on the convenience of the train. We left from downtown and arrived downtown. There were no nerve-wracking highway hazards or long trips from and to the centre of the city. You ride and sleep in comfort and eat with enjoyment while you look out the large windows and see a new view every mile of the way. The kids, bless 'em, were no problem at all. They found plenty to keep them out of mischief.

Sightseeing and picture taking were terrific. Nothing beats the wonderful view from the Scenic Domes—and they are something only Canadian Pacific has to offer in Canada—and at no extra cost. The train's a sociable place too. Both Zella and I found congenial company to chat with. Time on the train passes so pleasantly. And mighty important to me is the money I saved with Canadian Pacific's Special Family Plan fares—all that comfort and enjoyment for less than I'd have spent on almost any other kind of travel. Yes Sir, from now on we're staying "right on the rails."

Mrs. Marie Fowler was found in a lonely country Sunday only because a plinking couple climbed down into a mountain gully in search of a waterfall.

Mrs. Fowler, too weak to say much about her ordeal, reported that she got water by dipping her one free hand into a stream running past the car.

IN NEW KNOX CHURCH

Youthful Delegates At First Communion

The first communion service held in the new Knox Richmond Presbyterian Church highlighted a three-day convention of the B.C. Young People's Presbyterian Group held in Victoria over the Thanksgiving Day weekend.

Attending the convention were 120 young people from all over the province. The turnout, largest in the history of the group, listened to addresses by clergy in the area and participated in discussion on topics relevant to the church and the community.

"This was the most lively convention I can remember," said Rev. Bruce Molloy, assistant pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. "The discussions were most successful."

WIDE RANGE

Discussion topics ranged from such issues as "Truth or Diplomacy" to "You and the Universe" and "Christian Attitudes Toward Sex and Marriage."

Brian Crosby, an arts student at UBC, was chosen president of the group, and David McLean of Victoria, and Went Horton of Port Alberni, were elected to the governing body.

Tory MP Explains Maritime Commission

The federal maritime commission is ready to supply information at all times, according to Victoria MP A. DeB. McPhillips.

Mr. McPhillips was replying to Fred Bevis of Local 230, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, who said earlier everyone "clams up" when knowledge is sought on the board's duties and the names of its members.

Mr. Bevis had said that Defence Minister Harkness is chairman of the board.

"But nothing else is known of this 'mythical and fabulous body,'" he said.

ABSURD IDEA

Mr. McPhillips said any suggestion that the defence minister is chairman of the maritime commission is absurd.

"No minister of the Crown heads up a commission of that kind," the MP stated. "The chairman is Alec Watson and his office is at 124 O'Connor Street in Ottawa."

As to the charge that information could not be obtained

2 Die in Wreckage Of Freight Trains

CANORA, Sask. (CP)—One 57-car CNR freight train plowed into the rear of a second freight loaded with grain standing in the yards in this rail centre in eastern Saskatchewan Saturday night, and minutes later the wreckage was in flames.

The dead were identified as David E. Low, about 45, the engineer of the first train, and his fireman, Francis O. Wright, about 32, both of Kamsack, Sask.

TORONTO (CP)—Gail Ross, 19, member of Canada's international equestrian team, recovered sufficiently from serious car crash injuries to speak to her parents Monday in a hospital in suburban Scarborough.

The Edmonton girl suffered a fractured skull, broken jaw and cuts and bruises in a crash early Sunday which killed her companion, Lewis Christian Scott, 20, polo player and Cornell University student.

She was slated to represent Canada in her first big event next Friday after making the team with top marks in trials.

IF U.S. TAKES INITIATIVE

Red China Willing to Talk

PEKING (Reuters) — China is willing to have talks with the United States at the foreign ministers level as a step toward easing tension between the two countries, Marshal Chen Yi, Chinese foreign minister, said today.

But the initiative for any talks must come from the United States, he emphasized.

Marshal Chen Yi said, "In Warsaw we are already having talks on the ambassadorial level. At Geneva we are talking on the level of vice foreign ministers. If it is suggested we talk on the foreign ministers' level we would have no objections."

Chen Yi said China is aware of fears in the West, particularly in the United States, about what would happen when China possesses atomic weapons—which is only a question of time.

When China has atomic few powers, bombs, he said, there will be there is fear in the United States about China having atomic bombs, surely Americans realize that China can not avoid fearing the U.S. with its nuclear weapons and its policy of encircling China with military bases.

Marshal Chen Yi predicted that unless there is a settlement in Laos and Korea there is a risk that war will spread in the area.

Chen Yi said that because of China's current agricultural and industrial difficulties there is apprehension in some quarters that it "might carry out some adventure in Southeast Asia." This is groundless, he said. The only way China could overcome her difficulties was through her own production.

'KEEP TROOPS OUT OF SOUTHEAST ASIA'

TOKYO (UPI)—The chief of the Red Chinese army general staff warned the United States against sending troops to South Viet Nam or Laos.

Such a move, said Gen. Lo Jui-Ching, would "seriously endanger peace in Indo-China and Asia."

Lo's remarks obviously were in response to recurrent Washington and Saigon reports that the U.S. was seriously contemplating sending troops to South Viet Nam to give indirect, and possibly direct, support to the Vietnamese army. The State Department and U.S. officials in Saigon have denied the reports.

NEW AID to the blind, a tape "talking book," is demonstrated to Dr. J. T. Cruise, president of Victoria Branch, CNIB, by Capt. M. C. Robinson, national director of CNIB for Western Canada. Tape recordings of books and articles are permanently enclosed in a "cassette" case and may be obtained from libraries for the blind in same way a book is borrowed. Portable machine and speaker are purchased by user, with CNIB assistance if needed. Six machines are now being demonstrated in Canada, although several hundred are already in use in Britain where "cassette" attachment was developed. CNIB, a United Appeal agency, hopes to convert its present turntable and disc record libraries to the improved tape system.

Municipal Unity Bane Of Politicos

VANCOUVER (CP)—Opposition to metropolitan government springs from politicians, not from the people, Mayor Nathan Phillips of Toronto said in an interview here Tuesday.

Mr. Phillips, visiting briefly while en route to Japan, said he is sold on the merits of metropolitan government which has knit together 13 municipalities in the Greater Toronto area.

"You'll find the opposition will be from politicians who want to preserve their municipalities for political purposes," he said when asked to comment on Greater Vancouver's metro problems.

Sixteen municipalities in the Vancouver area have been studying metropolitan government for some time.

The Toronto mayor said he is an amalgamationist and that while metro government has been successful in the Toronto area, "I think it's just one step in municipal government, a stepping stone toward complete amalgamation."

He said he now is urging amalgamation of the Toronto metro area with a target date of Jan. 1, 1964, because he believes complete amalgamation would bring more efficiency and would "do away with competition between municipalities, which is very bad."

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP)—Indications are that nuclear power will be competitive in Ontario with power from other sources by 1970, Robert Winters, president of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission near Kincardine is expected to produce power at about 5.7 mills per kilowatt hour, a figure comparable with the cost of power from traditional sources.

"A sober appraisal of the status of civilian nuclear power today and its prospects over the next decade," he said, "reveals facts encouraging for an orderly but strong growth in the application of peaceful power from the atom throughout the world."

Spectre of Starvation Poses Red China Crisis

By HAROLD MORRISON
WASHINGTON (CP) — State department analysts predict Red China will go through a critical period of privation and starvation this winter. They anticipate it will be forced to seek increased supplies of food from foreign sources, particularly wheat and other grain from Canada and Australia.

Because of droughts and floods and some indication of a breakdown of the communes as an efficient system of farming, food shortages may continue in Red China for months. Nationalist Chinese hope the shortages may create a whirlwind of unrest on the Chinese mainland but the analysts, who have been aided in their work by reports of refugees, suggest this is unlikely to happen.

Instead they anticipate Communist China's great need of food will force it to spend more and more of its relatively scarce supply of foreign currencies on imports. They suggest there is some question of whether Canada and Australia will ever get full payment for all their shipments.

Both Canada and Australia have been sending large quantities of wheat to Red China on short-term credit. Canada receives 25 per cent in cash and the balance in nine months. The first credit bill becomes due next March.

AGGRAVATES PROBLEM. American officials said Red China's foreign exchange problem is aggravated by declining exports of industrial goods.

Faced by a shortage of exchange, Red China now is reported to be stepping up exports of gold and other precious metals to provide it with more cash. The mainland is normally a fairly large producer of silver and may seek to push sales of exports to the London market. It also has some gold, though it is suggested here that most of China's gold likely will be offered for sale through Russia.

Asked why the United States doesn't offer food to the Red Chinese in view of reports that widespread starvation is likely, American authorities replied there is no indication that the Peking government would be willing to accept such gifts.

American food would be made available, they said, if the Communists asked for it and agreed to tell the masses the food was a gift of the American people.

Another element in American policy is that the United States maintains a ban on trade with Red China. Some American legislators maintain that providing free food to the Chinese would merely help to prolong the life of the Communist government.

U.S. DETONATES THIRD UNDERGROUND A-BLAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission announced Tuesday that a nuclear test of low yield was conducted underground Tuesday at the commission's Nevada site.

The test is the third announced by the United States since it resumed underground blasts a few weeks ago.

Ottawa Mall Ends 2nd Successful Year

OTTAWA (CP) — The capital's downtown pedestrian shopping mall ended its second experimental year Tuesday amid hopes of some merchants that it will be a permanent fixture by the 1967 centennial celebrations.

Heavy cement flower beds, potted shade trees and other trimmings were carted away from the three-block stretch of

Vast Desert In Pakistan Gets Water

JAIPUR, India (AP) — India's vast desert bowl of Rajasthan began receiving irrigation water today to make its dreary wastes bloom into fertile fields.

The waters gushed forth into the sandy expanses parched since the beginning of history as Acting President Sarva palli Radhakrishnan pressed a button at a colorful ceremony.

LARGEST NETWORK

When completed at a cost of $426,300,000, the world's largest network of canals and field channels — 40,000 miles — will open up 10,000 sparsely inhabited square miles to agriculture.

Nearly 20,000 laborers will toil for the next 15 years to remove 11,000,000,000 cubic feet of sand to make way for the canals.

Two million people will be settled in the vast area, where 3,600,000 acres of desert will be irrigated.

The canal system branches off from the union of the Beas and Sutlej rivers in the Punjab and flows 10 miles before entering Rajasthan. From there an 880-mile main canal will flow to the Arabian Sea at Kandla port.

Royal Roads Represented At Meeting

Two members of the staff of the Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, will attend a meeting of the Canadian Services College advisory board at St. John's, Que.

Leaving today are Group Captain Alan F. Avant, commandant, and Dr. Eric Graham, director of studies.

The board, formed in 1954, advises and makes recommendations to the defence minister on all matters pertaining to the Royal Military College of Canada, Kingston, Ont.; Royal Roads and College Militaire Royal of St. Johns.

It is composed of two members each from Ontario and Quebec and one from each of the other provinces, and four members representing the ex-cadet clubs of the three colleges. They are selected from leading businessmen and educationists.

Doctors to Examine B.C. Sterilization Act

VANCOUVER (CP) — Attorney-General Bonner has asked B.C. doctors to recommend changes in the provincial law governing sterilization of women.

He said here Tuesday the government was willing to study the act and he recommended a brief be sent Health Minister Martin.

Earlier a committee of the B.C. division of the Canadian Medical Association proposed at its annual meeting in Kamloops that B.C.'s Sexual Sterilization Act be revised and expanded.

Dr. John Dickinson, chairman of the committee, said doctors were working under a cloud. He said current law applies only to inmates in mental and penal institutions.

Where there is a possibility of an inmate passing mental illness to a future child, the act says sterilization may be undertaken after patient or guardian permission is received. Approval then is given by a three-man board set up under the act.

Dr. Dickinson said there is no law prohibiting sterilization of a woman where her life is threatened by pregnancy.

He said such operations now are undertaken where two doctors are in agreement they are necessary and the patients consent.

But no law, he added, spells out under what conditions it may be done.

Guard Dog Bites Boy In Stadium

(Compiled from CP)

VANCOUVER — Danny Paialunga, 7, of Vancouver Tuesday was recovering at home after being attacked and severely bitten by a guard dog at Capilano Stadium.

The youngster has a two-inch gash and another smaller bite on his right calf.

Police said the boy was attacked Saturday after two older boys encouraged him and two companions to climb the stadium fence.

The Vancouver Mounties Baseball Club hired the animal from a patrol firm two weeks ago in an attempt to curb raids at the stadium.

"The dog was hired to stop vandals, but I would rather have the damage than have a child bitten," Frank Welters, Mounties' president said. "I feel badly about it. I will personally make sure the mother has no medical bills to pay."

He said club directors will meet shortly to decide whether the dog is to be kept.

'Domestic Affair'

VANCOUVER — Chief Constable George Archer Tuesday described as a domestic matter the suspension Sept. 29 of detective-sergeant Donald McDonald, former head of the police gambling squad here. The announcement means the matter will be considered an internal police affair and any charges strictly disciplinary. Detective N. G. P. Walker, suspended with McDonald, was ordered back to active duty Saturday.

Lawyer Charged

VANCOUVER — Milton Gonzales, a 65-year-old lawyer, was charged Wednesday with conspiracy in the illegal entry of Chinese into Canada.

He was arrested by RCMP Tuesday and will appear in court Friday.

Bail was set at $1,000.

The indictment charges Gonzales with three counts. It alleges that between January, 1957, and January, 1958, he and at least four other men, conspired to make a false document, used a forged application and made a written statement knowing it to be false, to obtain a Canadian passport.

Hospital Blast

VANCOUVER — Firemen here Tuesday prevented serious damage after an explosion rocked the university laboratory at Vancouver General Hospital. A hospital spokesman said the blaze that followed caused extensive damage to the laboratory. The blast occurred shortly after an experiment was left unattended for a few minutes. There were no injuries.

Thwarts Bandits

VANCOUVER — A hotel bellhop Tuesday played a desperate game of tug-of-war with two bandits on a downtown street with $6,000 at stake—and won.

Bill Aomoto, 28, and clerk Mrs. Gwen Krentner left the Castle Hotel on Granville Street to deposit the money in a bank. About 20 yards from the bank two men attacked them.

Mrs. Krentner, who is pregnant, was pushed face-first against a wall by one of the attackers while the other punched Aomoto to the ground. "The man tried to snatch the money, but I refused to let go," said Aomoto. "Fortunately he gave up first."

He said the attackers then fled into an alley and disappeared.

Arson Probed

VANCOUVER — Police and fire marshals have begun an investigation into the possibility of arson in a fire which caused $12,000 damage to a city funeral parlor recently purchased by a Winnipeg businessman.

The chapel of Chapman's Funeral Home was destroyed and firemen put out another small fire in a storage room Tuesday.

FOR SASKATCHEWAN

Income Tax, Medical Plan

REGINA (CP)—The speech from the throne opening the second session of the 14th Saskatchewan legislature today forecast introduction of two pieces of legislation, an income tax act and an act for the provision, and financing of medical care.

The speech, read by Lieutenant-Governor Frank Bastedo, was only 320 words long, compared with the 2,500 words for the spring session.

No details of either legislation were included in the speech.

Medical care legislation is expected to be based on an interim report, which recommended a scheme covering nearly all the 930,000 Saskatchewan residents; that would be comprehensive and compulsory; that would be administered by a separate body; and that would be paid for by deterrent fees, premiums, and supplemented by general provincial revenue.

Estimated cost of the plan is $19,970,000 to $21,570,000 for the first year.

The plan, which has been promised for Saskatchewan residents by Premier T. C. Douglas, probably will go into operation Jan. 1 or April 1.

DESPITE Soviet opposition Dr. Sigvard Eklund of Sweden was sworn in as new director-general of the International Atomic Energy Agency. The chief Soviet delegate walked out of the recent meeting in Vienna in protest against inauguration of Dr. Eklund.

National Power Grid Counter to Bennett?

OTTAWA (CP)—A national power grid is under consideration as part of the government's next election campaign, bag of projects, it is learned reliably.

The idea isn't new. Prime Minister Diefenbaker, Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton — while northern Affairs Minister — and Saskatchewan Premier Douglas all have raised it in the last three years.

Two new factors have been added.

No. 1 is the prospect of technical feasibility — piping high-voltage power for long distances at economic costs and reduced loss from "leakage."

No. 2 is the possibility felt in some quarters that a national power grid might be used to counter Premier Bennett of British Columbia in his arguments for large-scale power exports to the United States.

Only 43 of the 432,759 farms in Norway have a cultivated area of as much as 250 acres.

MONTE ROBERTS

It's the little things that mean a lot . . .

Got a pleasant chuckle out of an advertisement for McAllister Towing Ltd., the giant Montreal-New York-Norfolk-Philadelphia associate of Island Tug and Barge Ltd.

In contrast to the stuffed-shirt approaches common to most corporations—especially in the marine field—this full-page magazine ad was headed:

"THERE'S NO BUSINESS LIKE TOW BUSINESS"

Was much intrigued by the growl trombone played by Gail Martin in the Tex Beneke band, and quizzed him on same.

For the benefit of any other aficionados in the audience, the big-bellied instrument he played here isn't really a trombone. It's a trombone with additional valves and squiggly pipes, like an oboe, which accounts for the low-down, mean sound.

No particular name as yet for this instrument, but no doubt somebody—not me—will christen it a Tromboe. Or an Oboe?

Even more intrigued by an innocent remark made by Mr. Martin, whose native habitat is in the Hollywood Hills. Innocent remark: "Do you get television up here?"

But we mustn't be cross with the ignorance of visiting entertainers.

After playing in our own special substitute for a concert hall-auditorium, you can't blame them for thinking we're away out in the sticks.

Now that baseball has been safely tucked away for the season, I would like to tell you what a certain football fan of my acquaintance had to say Monday, as the fifth Series game ground on interminably.

"Why don't those chaps," he asked, "declare and pull stumps so we can watch the football game?"

But never mind. If it weren't for baseball, another friend of mine would never get to sleep at night.

The way he relaxes is to say, over and over again, Minny Minosa (who happens to be a ball player, if you didn't know).

Don't laugh. Try it next time you feel insomniacal . . . minnyminosaminnyminosaminnyminosa . . .

The little things don't mean much after all.

City Hall today issued its largest building permit of the year—$270,000—for construction of a 12-storey luxury apartment building overlooking Beacon Hill Park.

The permit was given to Westcott Construction Co. of Vancouver, which recently completed the first high-rise apartment in Victoria on adjacent property, the eight-storey Beacon Towers.

The new apartment block will go up on the Douglas Street site of Bickerton Court, now being demolished. It will contain 97 suites and will have a split-deck concrete parking garage at the rear, a garden court and swimming pool.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow Tuesday said public works committee will recommend prosecution of plants breaking the new anti-smoke bylaw unless they have reasonable cause. "We are coming to the stage where the committee will have to see that they are doing things in good faith, otherwise we will have to report the situation to council."

"If somebody is violating our bylaw without a reasonable cause, such as being unable to get equipment, we will have to recommend to council that it go ahead and prosecute."

The president of Besant Lodge of the Theosophical Society, Frank P. Boucher, will address a public meeting in the Lodge Room at 902 Government Street, on Sunday at 7.45 p.m.

He will speak on "The Meaning of the Theosophical Year."

The president of the RCAF Association, Leonard N. Baldock, of Windsor, Ont., will be present at a meeting of the local 800 Pacific Wing at 8 p.m. next Monday in the RCAF Urban Centre.

A verdict of accidental death was returned at McCall's Funeral Home today at the inquest into the death last Saturday of Arthur D. Hall, 76, of 362 Ker Avenue.

Mr. Hall died in St. Joseph's Hospital eight days after he was admitted when he was in collision with a car on Tillamook Road. He suffered multiple fractures to both legs and internal injuries.

The autopsy showed him to have died from effects of shock and confinement.

Mr. Hall was apparently struck on the west side of Tillamook Road near the intersection of Ker Avenue. The sidewalk is on the east side.

The jury recommended a street light be installed at the intersection due to the poor visibility in the area.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Could you tell me some of the recommendations for the Victoria Centenary? D.R.K.

A. The Victoria Centennial Committee has proposed the construction of a new city hall, a Centennial Park, and a museum of "Victoriana" to be set up in Craigdarroch Castle. Another suggestion has been a recreation centre for elderly citizens.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve comedowns, or legal problems. No will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

SMASH-GRAB SENTENCE SATURDAY

A smash-and-grab thief who kept police on the go Tuesday was remanded by Magistrate William Ostler in city police court today until Saturday for sentence.

Steven Drapak, no fixed address, pleaded guilty to smashing a plate glass window at K. A. McLeod Co., jewelers, 915 Douglas, and stealing four watches and 11 rings valued at $1,749.

He also admitted smashing a window at Radio Appliance Co., 738 Fort, and taking six radios totalling $126 in value.

On the same day, he also walked into T. Eaton Co. store and took a small radio and at the Hudson's Bay Co. store, a $16.95 suitcase and a $99.95 radio.

Three Seek Top Post In Hot Liberal Race

A slam-bang battle for the presidency and some hot topical resolutions have fired up B.C. Liberals for their convention which opens here Friday.

Local party officials a short while ago were gloomily predicting a dull two-day session at the Empress Hotel.

But spirits have revived with entry of three candidates for the office of party president, and some tough pre-convention campaigning for support.

There will also be a bid on the convention floor for support of a new law allowing anyone to sue the B.C. government, an aftermath of the B.C. Electric takeover.

The candidates for president are:

Jack Taggart, Vancouver lawyer and long-time grass roots party worker;

Bill Gilmour, Penticton lawyer who has been drumming up interior support.

Major resolution from local Liberals is the proposal for the law allowing any subject to sue the provincial government without first obtaining a fiat.

It comes from Oak Bay, represented in the legislature by Alan MacFarlane, a local lawyer.

The new law would be called the Crown Suits Act, and would be similar to existing federal legislation.

In B.C. at present the crown is supreme and can decide itself if it will be sued.

This is what happened after the B.C. Electric takeover.

The parent company, B.C. Power Corp., asked permission to sue the government for $225,000,000 compensation to shareholders. The suit was rejected by Premier Bennett last week.

A second Oak Bay resolution to be placed before the convention calls on the Liberal MLAs to ask the legislature for immediate arbitration of the takeover terms.

The presidency battle was sparked by retirement of present president Richard Hayman.

Local Liberals favor Mr. Taggart, a friend of Mr. MacFarlane's and who is regarded as a solid party worker with fairly conservative views.

Mr. Martin, a more colorful personality, has been running the biggest campaign in Vancouver, and is arriving in Victoria the day before the convention to seek votes.

Mr. Gilmour also has been actively campaigning in Vancouver as well as the interior. The convention begins Friday morning.

National Leader Lester B. Pearson will give the wind-up speech at a banquet Saturday. The Oak Bay Liberals have submitted two more resolutions to the convention: one is a bid for "substantial" increase in salaries for members of the federal parliament; the other seeks a Hansard in the B.C. legislature to report all speeches verbatim.

The convention begins Friday morning.

The Liquor Control Board today announced that a dining lounge licence has been granted Givnor's Grill, at 712 Yates Street.

Pleading guilty to impaired driving, Adam Angus Milne, Sooke, was fined $250 in city police court today. His licence was suspended.

The president of Besant Lodge of the Theosophical Society, Frank P. Boucher, will address a public meeting in the Lodge Room at 902 Government Street, on Sunday at 7.45 p.m.

He will speak on "The Meaning of the Theosophical Year."

Seaman Suffers Broken Neck In Pool Mishap

Navy Launches Investigation

The navy is conducting a board of inquiry into the injury of a 30-year-old seaman instructor who broke his neck at Royal Roads Canadian Services College last week.

L/S Frank Merk, of 377 Thetis Crescent, Belmont Park, is in slightly improved condition with the injury, which caused almost total paralysis.

The navy said he dove off a low board at Royal Roads swimming pool, striking another man in the water, last Wednesday noon.

TO JUBILEE

An emergency tracheotomy to assist breathing was performed at HMCS Naden Hospital when paralysis set in, and he was transferred for special attention to Royal Jubilee Hospital.

A hospital spokesman said Merk, who is married with four children, was "very ill indeed," when first brought to hospital.

"He is still seriously ill, but is beginning to show small improvement in his general condition. His whole condition was critical for a while."

L/S Merk is a physical training instructor at the college, training officer candidates.

The navy said the inquiry would investigate the circumstances surrounding the accident without attempting to reach a verdict.

Details Released On Building Plan

Greater Victoria School District ratepayers probably will go to the polls Oct. 28 to decide the fate of a $3,755,000 construction program revealed today.

A draft of the money bylaw—providing for construction of 110 elementary classrooms and development of school sites over the next three years—was approved by the provincial cabinet this morning.

Board chairman W. C. Gelling said trustees will meet Thursday night to fix a date for the vote, which probably would be Saturday, Oct. 28.

SHARING DEAL

Every item of the program will be financed with provincial-school district sharing.

If approved, the referendum, No. 5, will give the board only a 14-classroom margin of error in accommodating pupil increases over the next four years.

The bylaw calls for $750,280 for new sites and old site development; $2,537,075 for construction of buildings and $220,000 for classroom equipment.

ONE NEW SCHOOL

Only new school to be constructed will be a $153,200 project in the Richmond-Newton area. Site development and a portable classroom, at a cost of $35,500, will be set up in the North Ridge area off Carey Road.

Sites for new schools will be acquired and prepared in the following areas:

Christmas Avenue ($34,850); Ferndale Avenue ($52,000); Rock Heights Avenue ($45,200); and Ten Mile Point area ($22,900).

The elementary school program also includes $26,000 for construction of a one-room unit for retarded children.

Only $245,550 of the bylaw would be spent on high schools, mainly for site development in preparation for further expansion in future.

NEW OFFICES

A sum of $90,000 would be added to the $75,000 in hand for construction of a new administrative centre so that school board offices could be removed from Craigdarroch Castle.

Planning, supervision and contingency reserve for the program would total $247,645.

Here is the list of elementary schools that will be expanded and total cost of site, building and equipment expenses:

Burnside School, 2 rooms, $59,500; Cloverdale, 4 rooms in an annex, $106,500; Craigflower, 12 classes and an activity room, $307,500; Doncaster, 4 rooms, $71,500; Frank Hobbs, 2 rooms, $37,250;

One-Year Term For Stealing Welfare Voucher

Ronald Kolochinsky, no fixed address, was sentenced to one year in jail in city police court today for breaking, entering and theft on Sept. 23 at the Health and Welfare Centre, 1947 Cook Street, and uttering a forged document.

He stole two blank welfare vouchers from the centre and cashed one of these.

Police said Kolochinsky entered the centre by breaking a window by the rear door and releasing the lock.

He later presented one of the stolen vouchers, made out to "Brian Lord" and stamped with a welfare department stamp, in the amount of $8 at a downtown cafe. He was given a $5 meal ticket and change for the balance.

New Appointment For Town Planner

One-time consultant to the Capital Region Planning Board and other private and public planning groups throughout B.C., Dr. Ira M. Robinson, has joined the western division of Arthur D. Little Inc., in San Francisco.

Dr. Robinson, former professor of community and regional planning at the University of B.C., will serve in the economic development section of the big American research organization.

BUTT'N, BUTT'N, 'OOS GOT A BUTT'N . . . the King and Queen of the Pearlies, of course, who found competition "orl right" in the notions department of the HBC, where they were on display today. (Times Photo by Bill Halkett.)

COCKNEY ROYALTY CAN DO WITHOUT JELLIED EELS

Pour a 'Cupper' and They're Orl Roight!

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

There were no jellied eels and—stout for the Pearly King and Queen of London when they lunched in the Hudson's Bay restaurant today.

This is traditional fare for London's cockney royalty, but the Hudson's Bay decided to put on a "typical Vancouver Island lunch.

"Good thing, too—we can get eels any time," said Pearly King Fred Tinsley in the broad vowels of a true cockney, born within sound of Bow Bells in a house on the Old Kent Road.

The Pearly Queen—jolly round-faced Mary Tinsley—beamed approval as the elderly couple (covered in pearly buttons) marched down to the restaurant, be-seized by admirers.

The typical Vancouver Island lunch, ordered by restaurant manager Peter Schmidt, consisted of Pacific crab, local shrimp meat, large salad with "Treasure Island" dressing, cheesecake and, of course, tea.

"I could just do with a 'cupper' after all that roarin' around in jets and buses," said the Pearly Queen.

"Aye, but it's been a fine old trip and no mistake," added the Pearly King. "Me and the old Dutch haven't had such a time since we went to the Darby."

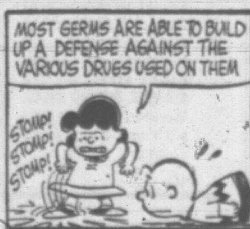

"But we'll be avin our golden weddin' next Easter and that'll be a bit orl right—a pint or two of wallow and a cartload of fish and chips."

The cockneys were flown to Vancouver from London by the Hudson's Bay Company and Canadian Pacific Airlines and are spending the day in Victoria.

Mr. Tinsley inherited the title of Pearly King of Southwark from his father, Henry Tinsley, and is now Pearly King of all London.

He explained that the order of Pearly Kings originated about 85 years ago when London costermongers—street merchants who sell from wheelbarrows—started raising funds for the hospitals.

Now, the hospitals are looked after by the government, but London's 60-odd Pearly Kings and Queens continue collecting for various charities.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

What if All These IFS Were True?

WOULDN'T IT BE FUN IF—
Some one food increased the bustline and some one food reduced the hips? (Food we like, of course.)

Hollandaise sauce and chocolate sundaes were slimming, and spinach were fattening?

The Fountain of Youth came in bottles?

There were certain "brain foods" to make us brighter?

We could order a beautiful skin by the yard?

Wishing made us look like our favorite actress?

We were born permanent wavy?

Standing up for 20 minutes after meals would reduce us? Shoes ever got normal again?

Fingernails never broke? Meals prepared themselves and dishes flew out the window?

The weather behaved? (That might become boring, and what would we talk about?)

When we reach 50, we would have the sense we had at 40 and the looks we had at 20?

Willpower came in packages, readily available at the nearest store?

Money grew on trees and everyone had a forest?

Styles always were flattering?

Everybody loved everybody?

If all these ifs came true, it might be fun, but then what would we work for and what would we worry about? Our problems would be taken away from us and we might feel lost.

Write and tell me what you would add to this list of things that would be fun, and I will publish some of them. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Gifts Arrive For Royal Baby

LONDON (AP)—The Royal Family usually accepts only official gifts, but Princess Margaret is making an exception of clothing for her first baby due later this month.

The Queen did the same thing when Prince Andrew was born in February, 1960.

Maj. John Griffin, Margaret's press secretary, said gifts of clothing for the baby are pouring into Kensington Palace, the princess' London home, and she doesn't want to offend or disappoint so many well-wishers.

No gifts will be accepted from commercial firms, Griffin said, but baby clothes from private well-wishers and charitable organizations will all be most welcome.

Australia Works to Advance the People of New Guinea

In the present day, the administration of colonial territories has become a foremost interest of the United Nations. D. O. Hay, High Commissioner of Australia in Canada, told Women's Canadian Club Tuesday afternoon in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Kirk Hall.

"That is why Australia unhesitatingly accepted the obligation to promote the welfare and social and political advancement of the peoples of New Guinea," he pointed out. The United Nations urges powers to hasten the grant of independence to all dependent people," Mr. Hay said, "but before a country can run itself the people must be educated to take on the necessary tasks of government."

Australia's vigorous measures to bring the people of New Guinea to the point where they can determine their own future include the training of teachers, the building of schools and hospitals, and the establishment of elected local councils.

This year, for the first time, a legislative council for the whole of New Guinea has been established on the basis of country-wide elections.

"But the people of New Guinea are still, for the most part, in a primitive state," Mr. Hay warned. "A long time must elapse before a firm and broad basis for independence is established."

"If it is given to the people too soon, the country will be exposed to infiltration of Communism."

In describing the island the speaker pointed to the eastern half, with an area of 183,000 square miles and a population of 2,000,000 Melanesians as "an important factor in Australia's defence."

Dr. Olga Jardine presided and introduced the speaker. He was thanked by Mrs. R. G. McKee. Pianist was Mrs. F. L. Watters.

This is the season for pancakes. Why not experiment with some new ways of making them.

Add Zest to Flip-Ups

You've heard of flipping, tossing and shaking up pancakes. Now here is the latest dodge, and a real time-saver it is, too. Freeze 'em. Yes, it's a wonderful way of keeping a store of ready-made pancakes always on hand. Simply make your pancakes as usual, then allow them to cool. Wrap them in aluminum foil or waxed paper and store them in your freezer or the ice compartment of your refrigerator.

And heating them up is no bother, either. Pop them into your toaster, or place them on foil in your oven at 350 degrees, and give them about 10 minutes. That's all, and they are as crisp and delicious as if you had just lifted them steaming from the griddle!

Next time you're cooking up a batch of pancakes, make a few extra for freezing. Then, any time of the day or night, you can easily dig into a plateful of your favorite pancake combination! A real cool idea!

NEW PANCAKE DISHES

There are hundreds of tasty ways to serve pancakes and you can serve them for any meal. Why not choose one of these exciting variations and serve your family a real treat? They'll be glad you did.

Blueberry Pancakes

Fold in 1 cup of fresh or frozen blueberries to the batter just before baking.

Apple-Sauce Pancakes

Add 1 cup chopped apples to batter before baking. Serve with butter and a topping mixture of 1/2 cup sugar and 2 tablespoons of cinnamon.

Rice Pancakes

Fold 1 cup rice and 1/4 cup grated cheese into batter before baking.

Fraline Pancakes

Add 1/2 cup of chopped pecans to batter before baking.

Amalgamation—At a recent meeting of Gordon United Church Women's Association, a discussion period was held to clarify points on the forthcoming amalgamation of the W.A. and the Woman's Missionary Society under the name of United Church Women. Mrs. Jim Petersen presided. Final plans for the anniversary dinner of the church in the Fellowship Hall, Goldstream Ave., on Oct. 17, at 6:30 p.m., were made. Social convener, Mrs. F. Mosely, is in charge. Mrs. F. Cook took devotionals and Mrs. A. G. Atkins introduced the new mission study series, "Signals for the Sixties," which deals with Canadian mission work. Plans were also made for the annual bazaar on Nov. 4 in the church hall, commencing at 2:30 p.m.

Prize Winners—Among prize-winning articles at this year's PNE, on display at recent meeting of Victoria Handweaver's Guild, were a baby blanket by Mrs. G. Anstey and yardage by Mrs. H. Gonnason. DEAR ABBY Play It Straight!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: When I was young I had to walk home more than once. I am now a widow of 50, and I have found that men are still the same. Whether they are 18 or 80, if they take a woman out to dinner and show they think they have rented her for 12 hours. I have been in many cities and they are all the same all over. The first thing they think of is to make up for everything the poor woman has missed since her husband died. But they aren't interested in marriage. What does a decent woman do? I am—

PLAIN DISGUSTED

DEAR ABBY: She keeps herself busy doing decent things with decent people. She volunteers to help at church, in hospitals, or in politics in her spare time. And she might even attempt to broaden her horizons by taking some courses with other adults. Decency is still an asset, not a liability.

DEAR ABBY: I've got a guy who loves to howl. He has a reputation for being a very good bowler, but whenever I come to watch him bowl, he is terrible. Now he has started calling me "Jinx." I know he means it as a joke, but I wonder if maybe I am really bad luck to him?

"JINX"

DEAR "JINX": When you are near, he obviously is unable to concentrate on his bowling. But that is probably because he likes you, which is good luck, all the way 'round.

DEAR ABBY: An elderly man, who claims he knew my husband many years ago, turned up in our town. My husband barely remembers him. Anyway, this man said

BACKACHE May be Warning

Backache is often caused by lazy kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest or that tired-out and heavy-headed feeling may ensue. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better, sleep better—work better. Get Dodd's Kidney Pills now.

my husband was his favorite when he was a small boy. I had him to dinner and he saw my dishes didn't match, so he sent me a new set which must have cost him $40. He met our children, and took them all downtown and bought them new clothes. We had a few bills, and he paid those. He is staying with us, and hands me $50 a week. He buys us turkeys, steaks and chops. I personally think he's off his rocker, but you can't argue with him as he says he has heart trouble. He says he's divorced, and his family doesn't care for him... that he's not a millionaire, but he wants to spend what money he has his own way. He'll go broke, I fear. How should we stop him?

VERY WORRIED

Rushing Party—Members of Alpha Zeta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority held a successful rushing party at the home of Mrs. Lynne Mills. The chapter concluded its rushing program with a model meeting at the home of Mrs. Maureen Mason, Tuesday evening.

DO FALSE TEETH Rock, Slide or Slip?

PASTRETH, an improved powder to be sprinkled on upper or lower plates, holds false teeth more firmly in place. Do not slide, slip or rock. No sunny, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. PASTRETH is alkaline (non-acid). Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" breath. Get PASTRETH at drug counters everywhere. Adv.

DEAR VERY: Find out something about his background. Your local police can help you. If he is just a generous old gent, you are in luck. If he is, indeed, "off his rocker," you could be accused of taking advantage of his condition.

What's troubling you? Write Abby, care of 205 Park Rd., Burlingame, Calif. Include self-addressed stamped envelope.

Have It-But Don't Act It!

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Canadian women have won their equality but have not yet learned to act as if they really believe it, Senator Josie D. Quart of Sillery, Que., told a meeting of the Women's Club of Saint John Thursday.

"One thing is certain," she said, "nothing now can stop the trend towards greater equality of opportunity between men and women."

But women's tasks now were to convince the men of this and "to educate the unconverted masses of women who are too apathetic and complacent."

She said one of the finest services women can render their country in these troubled times is to be on the alert against Communist infiltration in society.

Bizarre Burglary Trial Stars Ex-Chorus Beauty

POTTSVILLE, Pa. (AP)—A strange, ramified case of high crime — involving big-time burglary and two killings — is moving to a climax in this hard coal community.

After three weeks of testimony, the prosecution rested Tuesday in the trial of Lillian Reis, 32-year-old former chorus girl who bought a Philadelphia night club where she used to dance.

One of six original defendants, Miss Reis is accused of masterminding a burglary which itself has been as mysterious as some of the rest of characters.

In August, 1959, the Pottsville home of John B. Rich, an Italian immigrant who became affluent in coal operations, was looted while Rich and his wife were in Europe.

From the outset, the victim and the state have been at odds over how much was stolen. In two previous trials, and in this one, police and other prosecution witnesses have testified the haul came to nearly $500,000.

Rich himself, told the other day, angrily just the court he lost no more than $3,300 to $5,000 in cash, and perhaps $17,000 worth of jewelry.

INDEPENDENT MEANS
The prosecution contends Miss Reis instigated the burglary to buy the club, the Celebrity Room, and to spread her wings in other ways.

LILLIAN REIS
... bought night club

The defence says she didn't have to rob a safe because she had a hoard of her own—at least $30,000 hidden in her cellar toward the end of 1958—and help from others, including her stepfather and a middle-aged admirer given to prodigal spending.

In an old-fashioned courtroom, presided over by Judge

Charles Staudenmeier, spectators and principals alike wait to see whether John Lavelle, defence lawyer, will put Miss Reis on the stand.

In a community not too accustomed to so-called glamor, the brunette Miss Reis has been a kind of showpiece, fully aware of the stares her figure provoked. A classy dresser, she has not worn the same costume twice, and whether it is a frock, a suit or some other ensemble, the colors have a theatrical effectiveness.

To the stand Tuesday came the stepfather, Sidney Reinken, 54, a New York jeweler, who told of borrowing money to help Lillian get the club, of which eventually he became corporate president — without stock.

REDUCED TO PENURY
Reinken focused the spotlight anew on Clyde (Bing) Miller, 55, who used to be a big coal mine operator but was reduced to flunking work, avowedly because of largesse laden out to Lillian.

Early in the trial, Miller, ill from a blood disease, testified he lavished love and a fortune on the ambitious dancer—diamonds, cars, furs, cash.

Under questioning by Lavelle, Reinken said that Miller came to his store on August 13, 1959, and said he (Miller) had given Miss Reis money to make it possible for her to buy the Celebrity Room.

Reinken denied that his daughter had told him Aug. 13, 1959, about the Rich burglary or that she had given him a package to give to Miller. Miller has testified that Miss Reis told him to go to New York on that date, five days after the burglary, because her father had a package for him. The package, Miller said, later turned out to contain $7,000.

Miller is a defendant, too, scheduled for trial after Miss Reis' fate has been decided.

TOLD OF SAFE
It was Miller, the prosecution says, who tipped Miss Reis about treasure in the Rich safe, Miller's own well having run dry.

Then, by the state's account, she hired John Berkery, 30, Vincent Blaney, 26, and Robert Poulson, 26, all of Philadelphia or South Jersey, to crack the safe. Ralph Satino Jr., 28, floor manager at the Celebrity Room, was sent along to protect his employer's interests, and possibly because of a romantic stake as well, the prosecution adds.

Poulson, Berkery and Satino were convicted of the burglary earlier this year. They are appealing.

Vincent Blaney was killed in mid-summer, 1960, and his iron-laden body pitched into the sea off Margate, N. J. Police said he was turning state's evidence.

Blaney's brother, Richard, 27, who by the record led a short, violent life in true underworld fashion, was blown up in his own automobile last July. He had been a star witness for the state in the other trials, and was to have been a leading witness against Miss Reis.

Union Drops Damages Appeal Try

WINNIPEG (CP)—A Winnipeg union has dropped its appeal against a damage award which involved a precedent-setting ruling that unions are legal entities and can be sued.

A discontinuance of the appeal against a $3,000 damage award to a supermarket which the union had picketed was filed Tuesday in Manitoba court of appeal by Local 832 of the Retail Clerks International Association (CLC).

TOO COSTLY
A union spokesman said the case already had cost $4,000 and a lack of funds was the main reason for dropping the matter.

The decision was handed down in Court of Queen's Bench by Mr. Justice A. M. Monnin who, in a precedent-setting ruling, said a union can be sued as well as the individual members.

Mr. Justice Monnin awarded $3,000 in damages to an Independent Grocers' Alliance supermarket in the neighboring city of St. James. The damages were for conspiracy to injure by means of a secondary boycott.

The court case arose out of a strike at a wholesale house. The union picketed the supermarket because it bought goods from the wholesale house and the supermarket owner started the action.

UNITED APPEAL

Rally to Start House Canvassing

The United Appeal will kick off its residential canvass in Harford next Sunday evening with the premiere of a new British comedy, "Very Important Person," starring James Robertson Justice and Leslie Phillips.

The movie premiere will be the occasion of a mass rally of 1,500 canvassers and team captains starting at 8.30 p.m. Special guests will include Mayor Percy Scourrah and the reeves of Greater Victoria's municipalities.

An orchestra provided by Musicians' Union, Local 247 will play until 9 p.m., when Hugh Curtis of CJVI takes over as master of ceremonies and introduces Floyd Fairclough, chairman of the residential division.

GUILD SKIT
Mr. Fairclough, in turn, will introduce 10 women captains from this division. Victoria Theatre Guild will then present a skit on "How Not to Sell the United Appeal," written by Times drama editor Audrey St.D. Johnson and directed by Bert Williams.

Big Powers 'Obsessed' UN Told

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—Nigerian Foreign Minister Jaja Wachuku called on the small nations of the world yesterday to snatch leadership from the big powers whose "insane" policies threaten global atomic destruction.

"The time has come when the great powers should not be allowed to bulldoze us into a situation which may result in our destruction due to our own negligence," he told the 100-nation General Assembly. It applauded him loudly.

POWERS 'OBSESSED'

Wachuku, flaying East and West alike, said the big powers had become obsessed with the idea of their grandeur based on how many each could kill in the other camp.

"The time has come when we have to abandon the great powers—not totally, but to put them in a cold chamber, to let them feel our coolness, to see whether we cannot make them more amenable to reason."

Campaign chairman Justin Harford will speak briefly before the showing of the new British comedy provided by the J. Arthur Rank Organization.

Meanwhile, other divisions of the United Appeal are going ahead and employees of two Greater Victoria bank branches are the latest groups to be cited for awards in the industrial and commercial employees division.

They are those of the 1517 Douglas Street branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce and the Oak Bay branch of the Bank of Montreal.

Group chairman E. C. Brown reported that the 29 employees of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce donated a total of $321, while 14 employees of the Bank of Montreal donated $87.

LABOR SUPPORT

Labor, too, is solidly behind the United Appeal. Robert C. Barrie, president of Victoria Labor Council, said today:

"I ask that Labor will do its utmost, in the short time of the campaign that is left, to subscribe to the appeal so that the work of assistance to the many needy persons in our community may continue in the forth coming year.

"We have our problems, not the least of which is unemployment, but many have maintained their earnings and are able to assist in this important appeal for funds.

"If each of us does his best towards the United Appeal, I am sure we can put the drive over the top for 1961-62."

Ald. A. W. Toone, secretary-treasurer of Victoria Labor Council, is executive member for Labor in the United Appeal and was recently appointed second vice-president of Greater Victoria Community Welfare Council.

"Let us be sure we give our fair share," he said in a message to officers and members of all local unions.

Church Bells Spurred Poland Village Rebels

WARSAW (AP)—A crowd of more than 1,000, summoned by pealing church bells, attacked local Communist authorities in the northern Polish town of Torun last Friday, Roman Catholic Church sources reported today.

The report said the disorders were touched off by local officials attempting to close down a Roman Catholic seminary.

Ten persons were reported arrested during the brief outbreak. There were no reports of serious injuries. Church officials in Warsaw gave the following account of the incident:

Local authorities some time ago closed down part of the Redemptorist monks' monastery used as pre-seminary school for boys.

Last Friday, local officials came to place official seals on the entrance of the seminary. But workmen building the monastery's new church prevented them from applying the seals.

Then someone began ringing the church bells and the crowd assembled, after which there was some scuffling between the police and townspeople. Reinforcements dispersed the crowd.

Church sources said the rector of the Redemptorist monastery, Rev. Stanislaw Zdunek, was arrested last spring and charged with purchasing stolen building materials for church construction. He is awaiting trial.

Another antenna many miles away. In effect, the system bounces signals over the horizon by using a natural reflection in the sky.

Boeing said the initial cost of the system would be five to 10 per cent lower than any other proposed. It said the installation cost would be down about $5,000 for a 60-foot antenna.

Boeing has sold one of the antenna, in a 30-foot size, to Page Communications Engineering Inc. of Washington, D.C. Page plans to use the antenna in overseas installations for army communications.

The company said the antenna would survive temperature extremes from 70 degrees Fahrenheit below zero to 140 degrees above zero and could be made to withstand winds of 180 miles an hour.

Vietnamese Protest Kidnapping by Reds

SAIGON (AP)—Four hundred South Vietnamese working for the International Control Commission staged a one-day strike today protesting the commission's failure to seek the release of a liaison officer kidnapped by Communist Viet Cong rebels.

The South Viet Nam government has asked the Indian-Canadian-Polish commission to seek the release of its liaison officer with the ICC, Col. Hoang Thuy Nam.

The Canadian delegate sent a letter of sympathy, but informed sources said the ICC would take no official action because it has never ruled that the Communist rebels in South Viet Nam have any connection with the North Viet Nam government.

The ICC was set up in 1954 to supervise the truce established by the Geneva conference that divided the country into Communist north and pro-western south at the 17th parallel.

The Geneva agreement does not cover subversion, and it was only recently that the Indian delegation joined the Canadians over Communist Poland's protests to vote to look into the question.

SAFE!

The Daily Newspaper
Is the Safer, Surer
Advertising Investment

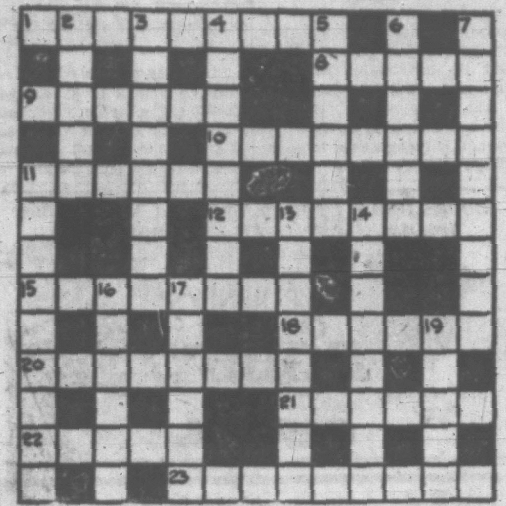

Two questions influence the choice of an advertising medium. First, what does it cost to reach a person with a sales message? Second, how many of those you reach will buy? A typical advertiser can reach a person through newspapers at least as economically as through other media. And the newspaper delivers an audience that likes to read advertising, prefers newspapers with advertising, and shops from advertising. Such an audience guarantees more sales action per message delivered, and makes newspapers the safer, surer ad medium. Why not send the daily newspaper to bat for you?

SOLUTION FRIDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Miss Myrna Fahey believes she's the only TV actress whose contract provides that she shall have a stock ticker on the set.

"That sounds like a phony story," this reporter said recently to Myrna, the 21-year-old Elizabeth Taylor look-alike from Southwest Harbor, Me., who plays Leon Ames' daughter in the new CBS series, "Father of the Bride."

"Yes, it does," nodded Myrna, sitting with me in the King Cole Room at the St. Regis.

"But it's in my contract, and though I don't actually have it yet, I'm going to have it within two weeks."

It may be a clue to the kind of actresses around today.

"I never dreamed I'd become interested in finance," Myrna said. "I did take an investment course in the UCLA extension summer school but that wasn't what did it."

"I bought some industrial stock," she explained.

(A man in the next booth was observed to be listening to our conversation. It's well known that pretty girls get very good stock tips.)

"I bought it at 60 and it went to 145," Myrna said. "It split for the second time."

FROM BROTHER

"Well!" I said. "Did you get the tip on it from a man?"

"Yes," she admitted.

"I was about to say 'Ah, Ha' when Myrna said:

"My brother. He's with that company. He's in what they call 'lateral guidance.' It sounds like some kind of psychiatry but it has to do with guided missiles."

Myrna then went on babbling about growth stocks and added, "I dabble a lot in new issues."

This is Myrna's second crack at fame. Five years ago, just after she'd graduated from high school in Maine and gone to Hollywood, she entered the Miss Rheingold contest and became one of the six finalists.

Still, she'd lost, so she studied acting, got into the movie, "The Story on Page One," and then co-starred with Vincent Price in "House of Usher."

"The fact that I'm supposed to look like Elizabeth Taylor has nothing to do with me getting into 'Father of the Bride,'" Myrna insisted.

"Because we don't really look alike—I don't think. We just happen to have the same coloring."

"Somebody happened to see me on 'Sunset Strip' and asked for me for the series. I was skiing in Aspen, Colo., at the time."

"DON'T PRINT THAT!"

A famed cafe singer has been getting loaded and cussing his night club bosses; his manager warned him. "Cuss anybody you want but not the owners!" ... When a big TV show has to get an audience, it phones the USO, the YMCA, and a neighboring bar with the plea, "Send us some customers who look pretty good."

Paul Ford, playing a senator in "Advise and Consent," got coaching in an Italian accent from Otto Preminger—so his Italian accent had a German accent. ... Frank Sinatra's company ordered a batch of Revell's X-15 models to plug his airplane movie, "X-15."

EARL'S PEARLS: Criticism is something you can avoid by saying nothing, doing nothing and being nothing.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Nonnee Coan of Norfolk says his wife smokes only after meals: "After her meals, after my meals, after everybody's meals."

Vincent Price's "Pit and the Pendulum" shows a room full of instruments of torture. "Of course," says Price, "in a modern version we'd install a TV set." ... That's Earl, brother.

Does tension cause churning stomach?

Fast-paced living, plus irregular meals or too much smoking or drinking, can often lead to stomach discomfort. But with TUMS you get relief, fast! Just eat a couple of those mild, minty tablets ... they go to work immediately to relieve acid indigestion, stop heartburn! Keep a roll of TUMS handy—ready to use any time, any place. No water or glass needed ... and there's never any after-taste. TUMS cost so little too!

FLOODLIGHTS ILLUMINATE BUILDINGS

The B.C. government is going to show off the stained glass windows in the legislative buildings with floodlights.

The idea is to illuminate the panes from the outside so that visitors during the dull winter days and nights will be impressed as they walk through the buildings' corridors.

First two lights are now being installed outside the corridor which runs past the legislative chamber.

50,000-TON SPACESHIP FORECAST BY EXPERTS

NEW YORK (AP)—Space experts see the possibility of building an interplanetary craft as big as a battleship.

It would weigh 100,000,000 pounds at take-off.

Problems in its construction and launching were analyzed Monday at the opening of the American Rocket Society's one-week "space report to the nation."

The giant space vehicle was seen as the size needed, with present chemical propellants, for manned expeditions to Mars. It would carry a crew of about 50.

Building such craft "is technically feasible and simply an extension of today's state of the art," said Chauncey J. Hamlin Jr., of North American Aviation Incorporated, Los Angeles.

At launching, the craft would stand nearly 700 feet high, with probably 10 rocket stages attached. Its 50,000-ton weight would be equal to that of the battleship Missouri. The first one would cost an estimated $5,000,000,000.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 3-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia; and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Anthony Nicoletti, Jr., age 11, of St. Louis, Mo., for his question:

What Is an Amoeba?

We share this roomy world of ours with a host of little living things too small for our eyes to see. Molds and yeast spores float in the air, bitsy bacteria ride on every speck of dust. A drop of pond water teems with a vast variety of individual plants and animals. Chances are, we shall find at least one amoeba among them; for this humble member of the animal kingdom is a water dweller.

The bodies of sizable animals are made of countless small cells, each fitted for special duties. All living cells are filled with a clear jelly called protoplasm. The little amoeba has no special cells for seeing, eating and digestion as do we. For the tiny creature is a single-celled animal and his one cell is able to do everything necessary to keep him alive. In some respects, he manages to keep alive better than we do. For, barring accidents, the one-celled amoeba is immortal.

It takes about 2,000 average sized amoebas to measure one inch. Some varieties are much larger, just big enough to be seen as tiny dots. The only way to study the body of an amoeba is under a microscope. To be seen this way, his small body will be stained with various dyes and mounted on a glass slide. At first glance, you might mistake him for an ink blot.

This is because there is no definite shape to his soft little body. In real life, it flows along this way and that in a never-ending search for food. The little fellow has no nose, no eyes, no ears, yet somehow he seems to sense the most promising direction in which to go. He pokes out a feeler called a pseudopod, meaning a false foot, and the rest of his jelly-like body flows following along.

Eats With Several 'Feet'

When he reaches a bacterium, the amoeba engulfs it with several pseudopods. The tiny morsel becomes a food vacuole, a temporary stomach where it is digested. When all the goodness has been removed, the food vacuole is passed outside the amoeba's body and left behind.

The microscope slide may show the amoeba in color, though in real life he is actually a colorless blob of protoplasm. The outer edge of the cell is encased in firmer jelly, though this is too fragile to be called a skin. The protoplasm jelly is spattered with tiny granules and several larger objects. There may be two or three food vacuoles and there is sure to be a cell nucleus which governs the life processes within the amoeba.

When food is plentiful and living conditions are good, the amoeba multiplies. The nucleus divides into two equal parts. Each goes its separate way, taking half the living protoplasm with it. The amoeba simply becomes a pair of twins, leaving no parents behind to grow old and die. This method of multiplying is called cell division. The amoeba may meet with accident, but he never grows old or dies from old age.

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Barry Gordon, age 10, of Philadelphia, Penna., for his question:

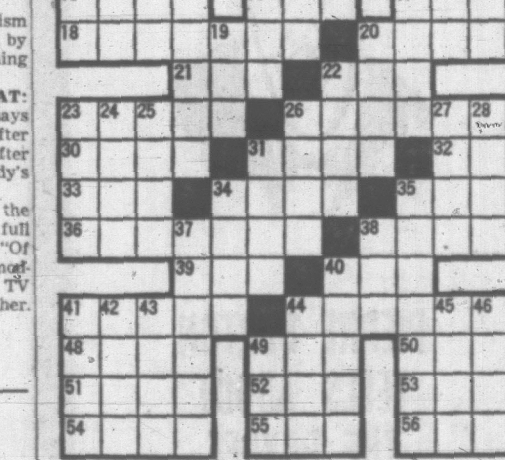

Why do animals hibernate?

The cold-blooded animals depend upon the warm air and the warm ground to keep themselves active. Frogs and snakes become sluggish when the weather turns chilly. These animals hibernate to escape the winter's cold. But there is another and maybe more important reason why so many animals sleep through the winter.

The woodchuck is a warm-blooded fellow with a thick fur coat. He hibernates because food is scarce through the winter months. Countless animals live on insects or green vegetation and these food supplies tend to disappear with the first snowfall. The main reason for hibernation, then, seems to be a lack of food though some of the cold-blooded animals also hibernate to escape the cold.

HOME KINDERGARTEN

Kits for Kids Prove Big Hit

A do-it-yourself kindergarten kit is available to B.C. parents who want to keep their youngsters occupied at home.

It is a service of the elementary correspondence school of the provincial education department, which proved so popular that it was extended to all pre-school children.

The kindergarten kits were devised for children whose brothers and sisters were already taking correspondence courses, says Art Plows, director of the elementary correspondence program.

"But then we began to get inquiries from other people," he says.

The kits are issued free to children who normally would take correspondence courses usually because they live in remote areas where it is impossible to attend regular school.

NOMINAL CHARGE

There are 750 correspondence pupils taking elementary grade courses at present and Mr. Plows expects the annual enrolment to top 1,200.

There is a nominal charge for the kits for anyone else—people who live within school districts whose children are either too young to start kindergarten or unable to attend.

The charge depends on where the pupil lives—it is cheaper in rural areas than big cities where plenty of public or private kindergartens are available.

KEEP THEM BUSY

The kits are aimed at keeping five-year-old children busy and preparing them for first grade.

They include four activity books, one for each season of the year which is the theme of the lessons. There are also instructions to parents for handwork projects, coloring, preliminary exercises to prepare for learning to read, and a calendar on which youngsters can chart the weather.

The kits are also sold to school boards and to private kindergartens with rights to reprint them.

PAYS FOR ALL

Mr. Plows says all the money which is earned is used to produce the kits and completely pays for the free kits issued to correspondence pupils.

Between 80 and 100 kits were issued last year.

"We are not in the business, and we have never publicized the service, but we will supply the kits to any parents who inquire," says Mr. Plows.

REWARDING

The department has not yet been able to ascertain if the kits make any decided difference in grade 1 work, but the public reaction has been rewarding, says Mr. Plows.

"We get many letters from people who are pleased with them," he adds.

Montreal Builders Seek Intervention

MONTREAL (CP)—Government intervention appeared today to be the only hope of a quick settlement in a strike of construction workers that has affected more than 50,000 men and halted all major building in Montreal.

The Montreal Builders' Exchange, representing the city's major contractors, sent a telegram to Premier Jean Lesage Tuesday night urging him to seek a solution. Without government intervention, an exchange spokesman said, the strike could last for months.

MENTAL RETARDATION TARGET FOR RESEARCH

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy called today for a broad new attack on problems of mental retardation. He said the effort might unlock secrets of life and the human mind.

The President announced that he would name a panel of experts to recommend a program of action. He said it would include outstanding physicians, scientists, educators, lawyers, psychologists, social scientists and leaders in the field of dealing with mental retardation.

Box Offices Beseiged In Integration Drive

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Negro college students marched in orderly lines to the box offices of three downtown movie theatres Tuesday night in unsuccessful attempts to purchase tickets and be admitted.

The students, including many of those arrested Monday night in similar demonstrations, stood in a long line before each box office, moved to the ticket window and asked to be admitted. Turned down, the demonstrators would move to the rear of the line and come through again.

54 ARRESTED

On Monday night 54 students were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct for refusing to obey a police order to disperse. They had been marching in a circle in front of the theatres and blocking the sidewalks, police said.

Police Chief French Harris, personally directing the police patrols at the theatre, said that as long as the students continued to march in an orderly manner they would not be taken in or asked to move along.

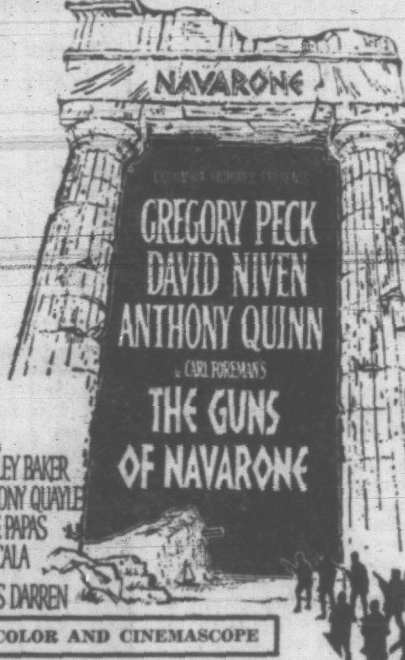

White persons trying to enter the theatre were asked by ushers to go to the rear of the demonstrators' line and to purchase their tickets when they got to the box office. Most did and theatre officials said business was about normal.

Centennial Precinct Plan Backed by Chamber Group

Endorsement of a permanent centennial project, comprising a civic centennial park and square, acquisition of a City Hall site and restoration of the markers in Pioneer Square, was given Tuesday noon by the civic affairs group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

The plan was outlined to the group by Philip Holmes, chairman of the permanent projects committee of the Victoria Centennial advisory committee, and by city planner Roderick Clack.

The group voted to bring the plan before the chamber board of directors with a recommendation for full support.

20 PROPOSALS

Mr. Holmes said about 20 suggestions were considered by his committee before this project—in essence the Cathedral Hill precinct plan—was decided upon.

Estimated cost of the project is under $600,000, exclusive of the cost of a new City Hall, which could be built for about $1,000,000. The centennial park and square would cost about $400,000, while an adjoining City Hall site could be acquired for around $175,000.

TIME SHORT

Mr. Holmes emphasized that time is running out if the project is to be started in time for the centenary next year.

In order to qualify for any provincial grant the plan would have to go before the finance committee of the cabinet before Oct. 15, he said.

Mr. Holmes' complaint that city council is only "lukewarm" on the project brought a vigorous objection from Ald. Millard Mooney.

Ald. Mooney said that while council had met and discussed the plan, it was more complicated than simply deciding to go ahead with it.

There is, he said, an involved process of land use zoning to be decided before the project can be considered, and he anticipated considerable resistance to rezoning.

Ald. Mooney said there is also a principle at stake where council is being asked to spend public money on a project which would enhance private property owners.

Council is being asked to endorse a project which would mix private and civic development, and he was not sure that council had the right to do so.

Mr. Clack expressed the fear that Victorians today are not showing the same vigor and imagination as the Victorians of many years ago. He was backed up by Tom Denny.

'STOP INTERFERING'

S.A. Envoy Hits Back In Bitter UN Address

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—South African Foreign Minister Eric Louw lashed out at African critics of his country's racial policies today in the United Nations General Assembly.

A Liberian delegate immediately demanded that Louw's speech be stricken from UN records.

Louw told the assembly his country is not going to swerve from its policies of separate racial development despite criticism from other countries.

He also said that many of the African countries which were criticizing his government were faced with appalling economic conditions and illiteracy, and were criticizing South Africa to divert attention from their own shortcomings.

'Our Course Will Solve the Problem'

Citing unrest and turmoil in much of the continent, Louw said in a policy speech:

"We firmly believe that the course upon which we have embarked in South Africa will ultimately solve the problem of relations between the white and non-white races in our country."

He accused other nations of interfering in South Africa's affairs and charged that Negro politicians are bidding for African leadership with the idea "that the one that hits South Africa hardest is likely to gain the favor of the smaller African states."

"The leaders are not really worried about the Bantu (Negro) in South Africa," he said, "because they know that they are far better cared for than the masses in their own countries."

The foreign minister said the white people of South Africa are permanent residents rather than colonists and are no more able to return to their countries of origin than are "the Roosevelts, the Eisenhausers, the Diefenbachers and the van der Biltts." Louw gave the European spellings.

At another point he said the black South Africans were not original inhabitants of the area but had arrived at the same time as the first Dutch settlers.

He asked whether the U.S., Canada and the Latin American countries—whose respec-

Red China Overture 'The Same Old Song'

(See Page 16)

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U.S. officials were unimpressed today by a Communist Chinese statement that Red China would be willing to hold foreign ministers' talks with the United States.

The general U.S. reaction was that this has been heard before. Red China has wanted to elevate its ambassadorial talks with the United States, presumably to seek added world prestige and more propaganda possibilities.

Washington's answer has always been that in prolonged ambassador-level talks since 1955 with the Peking regime in Geneva and Warsaw, the United States has been unable to reach agreement even on such relatively small problems as exchanging newsmen.

U.S. citizens are not allowed to vote for candidates for public office, but may vote on school expenditures, property improvements and other similar questions not raised at the same time as civic elections.

The order from Washington said separation of the plebiscite from simultaneous political action "may be difficult to distinguish."

Mr. Madill said the consulate will take no direct action before Oct. 18 other than informing Americans they may not vote. They are liable to expatriation if they disregard the order.

'Better Understanding' Gained in Berlin Talks

LORD HOME:

'War Danger Now Realized'

BRIGHTON, England (Reuters)—Foreign Secretary Lord Home today said the West has convinced Andrei Gromyko that interference with access to West Berlin would mean fighting that could lead to a nuclear war.

Home spoke to the annual Conservative party conference after meeting the Soviet foreign minister with Prime Minister Macmillan.

If there is interference with Western access to Berlin, Home said, a fight would start and no one could say that it would not end in the ultimate disaster of nuclear war.

"I think that we succeeded in convincing Mr. Gromyko that situation must not be allowed to arise."

RISK "COLLISION"

Home said there was one thing which had to be done before the West could talk about the substance of a negotiated settlement.

"It was to convince Mr. Gromyko that if the Russian government persisted in handing over the questions of access to the city of West Berlin and the status of the city to the East German government, they would be courting a head-on collision."

The West also had to persuade Gromyko that a negotiated settlement must take account of the Western as well as the Soviet position, with some give as well as take on the Russian side.

"Now we are in a better position to talk about the substance of a serious negotiation. But the lesson of these preliminary exchanges is that while we must be relentless in pursuit of peace, we must be implacable in securing the essential liberties."

DEPLORES LOOSE TALK
Home deprecated public statements about the Berlin crisis that could jeopardize the West's negotiations with the Communists.

He said a hazard of the negotiator is that "his own people are forever signalling his cards to the other side, not deliberately certainly, but as a part of our tradition of free speech."

"I must ask everyone to remember that the Communist technique of negotiation is to pocket each concession and then try to raise the bid."

Home said he hoped everyone would help to see negotiations are carried on in private.

Home spoke to the conference on an emergency resolution—later passed with only one dissenting vote—asking full support for the government and the Western allies in their stand on "the freedom and viability of West Berlin."

The emergency motion also asked the conference to reaffirm support of the United Nations charter and "for all measures designed to safeguard the independence, impartiality and effectiveness" of the UN secretariat.

100 MILLION 'SHACKLED' BY RUSSIA
BRIGHTON, Eng. (CP)—Retiring colonial secretary Iain Macleod said today Britain has freed 600,000 persons from colonial rule since the Second World War while Russia has put 100,000 into shackles.

Macleod, who ended two years as colonial secretary when he was made leader of the ruling Conservative party in the House of Commons and party chairman earlier this week, made his statement to the annual Conservative conference.

He said that the British parliament delayed the invention of the airplane for 60 years.

The society said a British inventor named William Samuel Henson applied for a patent on an "entirely rational" aircraft in 1842—six decades before Orville and Wilbur Wright flew 855 feet at Kitty Hawk, N.C.

Henson received his patent and petitioned parliament for funds to construct the plane. But the British government, according to the society, did not or could not supply the money despite "great public interest."

Henson's patent application described an "aerial steam carriage" to convey letters, goods and passengers from place to place through the air. His aircraft was a monoplane called the "Ariel," weighed 3,000 pounds and was powered by a steam engine capable of delivering 50 horsepower.

The geographic society said the engine was hitched to two pusher propellers which resembled paddle wheels. The wing was much like that on the Wright brothers' plane, ribbed and covered with a strong fabric. "I prefer oiled silk for this purpose," Henson wrote in his patent application.

"Henson's conception was entirely rational and markedly in advance of scientific thought for the year 1842," the society commented. "He lacked for success only a sufficiently light engine and a knowledge of the superiority of a curved wing section."

Queen Victoria herself granted Henson the patent for his "locomotive apparatus for air" the following year. Britain was in the throes of a severe depression and Henson never went beyond drawing of his aircraft.

IT'S A VIRUS

Feel Punk? Don't Blame Test Fallout

TORONTO (CP)—Radioactive fallout is believed by some people to have caused symptoms of persistent sore throat, coughing, aching joints and lack of energy, Dr. Gordon Bates, president of the Health League of Canada, said today.

He said the league had received calls from people suffering from the symptoms, which he said, are "generally due to a virus."

Dr. Bates said doctors do not know enough about radiation effects to say whether the symptoms are due to the increase in fallout caused by Russian nuclear tests.

Dr. W. C. Brown, deputy minister of health for Ontario, said he is convinced fallout is not the cause, but "we have no real knowledge of the biological effect of fallout."

OTTAWA (CP)—The average radiation level recorded by Canadian air sampling stations for the last week of September was almost unchanged from the level two weeks previous, it was announced today.

NEW VOLCANIC ERUPTIONS HIT ISLAND

CAPETOWN, South Africa (UPI)—Two more volcanic cones burst open on remote Tristan de Cunha Island today, linking up with the smoking volcano whose sudden eruption forced islanders to flee to sea Tuesday. (See story page 14.)

Britain to Curb Immigrant Flow

BRIGHTON, England (CP)—Home Secretary Richard A. Butler today promised the Conservative party conference that the government would slow the flow of Commonwealth immigrants into Britain.

His statement met with widespread approval from delegates who adopted by raised hands a resolution calling for control of the immigration flow.

Butler said the measures the government had in mind would be discussed with Commonwealth countries and added: "I have no intention of introducing legislation based on color."

Butler said 50,000 immigrants last year came from the West Indies and 8,900 from India, Pakistan, West Africa, Aden and Hong Kong. He predicted the immigration figure would rise to 100,000 this year.

Butler said the government's program would include barring persons with criminal records, requiring potential immigrants to show they have a job in Britain, and a stricter check on health.

Gromyko Reports To Khrushchev

LONDON (CP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko told reporters as he left here for Moscow today there is "a definite sign that understanding is growing" on the Berlin problem.

Gromyko left by plane to report to Nikita Khrushchev on his talks in Washington with President Kennedy last week and his meeting here Tuesday with Prime Minister Macmillan.

"There is a definite sign that understanding is growing of the Berlin problem, which is very important," Gromyko said at the airport.

"Everything must be done to find a peaceful solution."

He said Russia "is doing its best to facilitate such a peaceful solution but not everything depends upon the Soviet government."

At the same time, Gromyko stressed that Russia was firm "on one basic point, that an East German peace treaty must be concluded and an end to the Second World War reached."

He declined to comment, however, when asked about a time limit for a peace treaty. Khrushchev has said a peace treaty will be signed with East Germany by the end of this year, but Communist propaganda organs recently have been vague about any deadline.

Oct. 28 Voting Due on Schools

Details Released On Building Plan

Greater Victoria School District ratepayers probably will go to the polls Oct. 28 to decide the fate of a $3,755,000 construction program revealed today.

A draft of the money bylaw—providing for construction of 110 elementary classrooms and development of school sites over the next three years—was approved by the provincial cabinet this morning.

Board chairman W. C. Gelling said trustees will meet Thursday night to fix a date for the vote, which probably would be Saturday, Oct. 28.

SHARING DEAL
Every item of the program will be financed with provincial school district sharing. If approved, the referendum, No. 5, will give the board only a 14-classroom margin of error in accommodating pupil increases over the next four years.

The bylaw calls for $750,280 for new sites and old site development; $2,537,075 for construction of buildings and $220,000 for classroom equipment.

ONE NEW SCHOOL
Only new school to be constructed will be a $153,200 project in the Richmond-Newton area. Site development and a portable classroom, at a cost of $35,500, will be set up in the North Ridge area off Carey Road.

Sites for new schools will be acquired and prepared in the following areas:

Christmas Avenue ($34,850); Fernside Avenue ($52,000); Rock Heights Avenue ($45,200); and Ten Mile Point area ($22,300).

The elementary school program also includes $26,000 for construction of a one-room unit for retarded children.

Only $245,550 of the bylaw would be spent on new schools, mainly for site development in preparation for further expansion in future.

NEW OFFICES
A sum of $90,000 would be added to the $75,000 in hand for construction of a new administrative centre so that school board offices could be removed from Craigdarroch Castle.

Planning, supervision and contingency reserve for the program would total $247,645. Here is the list of elementary schools that will be expanded and total cost of site, building and equipment expenses:

Burnside School, 2 rooms, $59,500; Cloverdale, 4 rooms in an annex, $106,500; Craigflower, 12 classes and an activity room, $307,500; Doncaster, 4 rooms, $71,500; Frank Hobbs, 2 rooms, $37,250;

One-Year Term For Stealing Welfare Voucher
Ronald Kolochinsky, no fixed address, was sentenced to one year in jail in city police court today for breaking, entering and theft on Sept. 23 at the Health and Welfare Centre, 1947 Cook Street, and uttering a forged document.

He stole two blank welfare vouchers from the centre and cashed one of these.

Police said Kolochinsky entered the centre by breaking a window, by the rear door and releasing the lock.

He later presented one of the stolen vouchers, made out to "Brian Lord" and stamped with a welfare department stamp, in the amount of $8 at a downtown cafe. He was given a $5 meal ticket and chit for the balance.

REDUCE GAP
For the Vancouver Island teamsters covered by Local 885, province-wide bargaining would mean the gradual elimination of a wage and benefits differential which now stands 23 cents an hour in favor of the mainland.

Besides the 10 major employers and 225 drivers directly involved in normal Island negotiations, there are another half-dozen or more operators and some 75 teamsters affected indirectly by virtue of separate agreements.

New Appointment For Town Planner
One-time consultant to the Capital Region Planning Board and other private and public planning groups throughout B.C., Dr. Ira M. Robinson, has joined the western division of Arthur D. Little Inc., in San Francisco.

Dr. Robinson, former professor of community and regional planning at the University of B.C., will serve in the economic development section of the big American research organization.

Seaman Suffers Broken Neck In Pool Mishap

Navy Launches Investigation

The navy is conducting a board of inquiry into the injury of a 30-year-old seaman instructor who broke his neck at Royal Roads Canadian Services College last week.

L/S Frank Mark, of 477 Thetis Crescent, Belmont Park, is in slightly improved condition with the injury, which caused almost total paralysis.

The navy said he dove off a low board at Royal Roads swimming pool, striking another man in the water, last Wednesday noon.

TO JUBILEE
An emergency tracheotomy to assist breathing was performed at HMCS Naden Hospital when paralysis set in, and he was transferred for special attention to Royal Jubilee Hospital.

A hospital spokesman said Mark, who is married with four children, was "very ill indeed," when first brought to hospital.

"He is still seriously ill, but is beginning to show small improvement in his general condition. His whole condition was critical for a while."

L/S Mark is a physical training instructor at the college, training officer candidates.

The navy said the inquiry would investigate the circumstances surrounding the accident without attempting to reach a verdict.

Drive Resumed On Auditorium

Intermunicipal Project Urged After Hotel Plan Falls Apart

Long-dormant civic auditorium committee met Tuesday and showed signs it will recommend construction of a multi-purpose auditorium as an intermunicipal project.

Chairman of the investigating group appointed by Mayor Percy Scourrah two years ago, Ald. Austin Curtis apologized for a 14-month gap in its meetings.

He said no sessions were called because the CPR hotel chain had indicated it would build a large auditorium hall addition at the Empress Hotel.

Ald. Curtis said this would have largely nullified the need for the committee's study. But, since nothing further had been done by the CPR, "I don't think they will be going ahead with it."

Committee members indicated they felt an early recommendation should be made to city council to go ahead with an auditorium, provided it is made into a Greater Victoria project.

FEW MAKE MONEY
A comprehensive survey of Canadian and U.S. cities with auditoriums showed that a majority are multi-purpose structures and few make a profit.

Committee will meet Oct. 30 to discuss specific facilities that should be included in an auditorium here: its size, location and other factors.

W. C. Mearns, B.C. Electric director, resigned from the committee because he now has to spend most of his time in Vancouver.

CROWN SUITS ACT
The new law would be called the Crown Suits Act, and would be similar to existing federal legislation.

In B.C. at present the crown is supreme and can decide itself if it will be sued.

This is what happened after the B.C. Electric takeover.

The parent company, B.C. Power Corp., asked permission to sue the government for $225,000,000 compensation to shareholders. The suit was rejected by Premier Bennett last week.

A second Oak Bay resolution to be placed before the convention calls on the Liberal MLAs to ask the legislature for immediate arbitration of the takeover terms.

The presidency battle was sparked by retirement of present president Richard Hayman.

TAGGART FAVORITE
Local Liberals favor Mr. Taggart, a friend of Mr. Macfarlane's and who is regarded as a solid party worker with fairly conservative views.

Mr. Martin, a more colorful personality, has been running the biggest campaign in Vancouver, and is arriving in Victoria the day before the convention to seek votes.

Mr. Gilmour also has been actively campaigning in Vancouver as well as the interior. The convention begins Friday morning.

National Leader Lester B. Pearson will give the wind-up speech at a banquet Saturday. The Oak Bay Liberals have submitted two more resolutions to the convention: one is a bid for "substantial" increase in salaries for members of the federal parliament; the other seeks a Hansard in the B.C. legislature to report all speeches verbatim.

Mr. Hall died in St. Joseph's Hospital eight days after he was admitted when he was in collision with a car on Tillikum Road. He suffered multiple fractures to both legs and internal injuries.

The autopsy showed him to have died from effects of shock and confinement.

Mr. Hall was apparently struck on the west side of Tillikum Road near the intersection of Ker Avenue. The sidewalk is on the east side.

The jury recommended a street light be installed at the intersection due to the poor visibility in the area.

same, but superstructure extends farther forward and aft to provide accommodation for added foot passengers, roomier restaurant. White circle forward on the hull will house sideways propulsion unit, to enable ferry to turn more easily when docking. (Times Photo by Bill Halkett.)

MONT ROBERTS

It's the little things that mean a lot . . .

Got a pleasant chuckle out of an advertisement for McAllister Towing Ltd., the giant Montreal-New York-Norfolk-Philadelphia associate of Island Tug and Barge Ltd.

In contrast to the stuffed-shirt approaches common to most corporations—especially in the marine field—this full-page magazine ad was headed:

"THERE'S NO BUSINESS LIKE TOW BUSINESS"

Was much intrigued by the growl trombone played by Gail Martin in the Tex Benecke band, and quizzed him on same.

For the benefit of any other aficionados in the audience, the big-bellied instrument he played here isn't really a trombone. It's a trombone with additional valves and squiggly pipes, like an oboe, which accounts for the low-down, mean sound.

No particular name as yet for this instrument, but no doubt somebody—not me—will christen it a Tromboe. Or an Obone?

Even more intrigued by an innocent remark made by Mr. Martin, whose native habitat is in the Hollywood Hills. Innocent remark: "Do you get television up here?"

But we mustn't be cross with the ignorance of visiting entertainers.

After playing in our own special substitute for a concert hall-auditorium, you can't blame them for thinking we're away out in the sticks.

Now that baseball has been safely tucked away for the season, I would like to tell you what a certain football fan of my acquaintance had to say Monday, as the fifth Series game ground on interminably.

"Why don't those chaps," he asked, "declare and pull stumps so we can watch the football game?"

But never mind. If it weren't for baseball, another friend of mine would never get to sleep at night.

The way he relaxes is to say, over and over again, Minny Minosa (who happens to be a ball player, if you didn't know).

Don't laugh. Try it next time you feel insomniacal . . . minnyminosaminnyminosaminnyminosa . . .

TOPICS OF THE DAY

City Hall today issued its largest building permit of the year—$970,000—for construction of a 12-storey luxury apartment building overlooking Beacon Hill Park.

The permit was given to Westcott Construction Co. of Vancouver, which recently completed the first high-rise apartment in Victoria on adjacent property, the eight-storey Beacon Towers.

The new apartment block will go up on the Douglas Street site of Bickerton Court, now being demolished. It will contain 97 suites and will have a split-deck concrete parking garage at the rear, a garden court and swimming pool.

Seventh Douglas Scouts and Cubs groups will hold a bottle drive for troop treasury next Saturday from 9:30 to 12:30 p.m.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow Tuesday said public works committee will recommend prosecution of plants breaking the new anti-smoke bylaw unless they have reasonable cause.

"We are coming to the stage where the committee will have to see that they are doing things in good faith, otherwise we will have to report the situation to council."

"If somebody is violating our bylaw without a reasonable cause, such as being unable to get equipment, we will have to recommend to council that it go ahead and prosecute."

St. Alban's 50 and Up will meet on Thursday at 2:15 p.m. in the parish hall, 1468 Ryan Street.

The president of Besant Lodge of the Theosophical Society, Frank P. Boucher, will address a public meeting in the Lodge Room at 902 Government Street, on Sunday at 7:45 p.m.

He will speak on "The Meaning of the Theosophical Seal."

A verdict of accidental death was returned at McCall's Funeral Home today at the inquest into the death last Saturday of Arthur D. Hall, 76, of 362 Ker Avenue.

Mr. Hall died in St. Joseph's Hospital eight days after he was admitted when he was in collision with a car on Tillikum Road. He suffered multiple fractures to both legs and internal injuries.

The autopsy showed him to have died from effects of shock and confinement.

Mr. Hall was apparently struck on the west side of Tillikum Road near the intersection of Ker Avenue. The sidewalk is on the east side.

The jury recommended a street light be installed at the intersection due to the poor visibility in the area.

EDWARDS AIR BASE, Calif. (AP)—United States Air Force Maj. Bob White rocketed a record 215,000 feet into space today then dived his X-15 Sky Dart safely back into the atmosphere in a "belly buster" plunge.

The new altitude mark of 41 miles is nearly nine miles higher than the previous X-15 altitude record of 169,600 feet, set last March by U.S. space agency test pilot Joe Walker.

An earlier report had said the X-15 had reached an altitude of 220,000 feet today.

AMERICANS CAN'T VOTE IN CALGARY

Fluorides 'Political Issue'

CALGARY (CP)—The American consulate in Calgary Tuesday received an order from the U.S. state department forbidding U.S. citizens from voting in the Oct. 18 plebiscite on fluoridation of the city's water supplies.

A letter to consul Edwin Madill from the office of State Secretary Dean Rusk said fluoridation had become a political issue and therefore Americans living here could not vote.

It is estimated that between 32,000 and 36,000 U.S. citizens live in the city.

The plebiscite is being held with civic elections for mayor, alderman and school boards.

Medical officer of health Dr. L. C. Allan, anxious for approval of fluoridation, said he was counting on a heavy favorable vote by Americans many of whom come from fluoridated areas themselves.

U.S. citizens are not allowed to vote for candidates for public office, but may vote on

Test Fallout

TORONTO (CP)—Radioactive fallout is believed by some people to have caused symptoms of persistent sore throat, coughing, aching joints and lack of energy, Dr. Gordon Bates, president of the Health League of Canada, said today.

He said the league had received calls from people suffering from the symptoms, which, he said, are "generally due to a virus."

Dr. Bates said doctors do not know enough about radiation effects to say whether the symptoms are due to the increase in fallout caused by Russian nuclear tests.

Dr. W. C. Brown, deputy minister of health for Ontario, said he is convinced fallout is not the cause, but "we have no real knowledge of the biological effect of fallout."

OTTAWA (CP)—The average radiation level recorded by Canadian air sampling stations for the last week of September was almost unchanged from the level two weeks previous, it was announced today.

East Germans
'Jump Gun'
On Protest

WASHINGTON (AP)—A United States spokesman denied today that the West plans to send West German police into West Berlin, and said an East German protest against the alleged plan would not be accepted by the Western powers.

The transport of such reinforcements by air or surface routes would be considered aggression, the Communists said and would be dealt with accordingly.

State department press officer Lincoln White said East German authorities had "again jumped the gun and are seeking to exploit propagandistically a development that has not occurred."

In a routine practice alert, 1,000 American troops rushed through the streets of West Berlin this morning to test their operational readiness.

The exercise was staged amid allied reports that some 300,000 Soviet, East German, Polish and Czech troops of the "Warsaw Pact" are holding war maneuvers in East Germany.

In West Germany, British and American troops are in the third day of a six-day exercise.

GROMYKO REPORTS TO K

'Better Understanding' Gained in Berlin Talks

LORD HOME:

'War Danger
Now Realized'

BRIGHTON, England (Reuters)—Foreign Secretary Lord Home today said the West has convinced Andrei Gromyko that interference with access to West Berlin would mean fighting that could lead to a nuclear war.

Home spoke to the annual Conservative party conference after meeting the Soviet foreign minister with Prime Minister Macmillan.

If there is interference with Western access to Berlin, Home said, a fight would start and no one could say that it would not end in the ultimate disaster of nuclear war.

"I think that we succeeded in convincing Mr. Gromyko that that situation must not be allowed to arise."

Home said there was one thing which had to be done before the West could talk about the substance of a negotiated settlement.

"It was to convince Mr. Gromyko that if the Russian government persisted in hand-

LONDON (CP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko told reporters as he left here for Moscow today there is "a definite sign that understanding is growing" on the Berlin problem.

Gromyko left by plane to report to Nikita Khrushchev on his talks in Washington with President Kennedy last week and his meeting here Tuesday with Prime Minister Macmillan.

"There is a definite sign that understanding is growing of the Berlin problem, which is very important," Gromyko said at the airport.

"Everything must be done to find a peaceful solution."

He said Russia "is doing its best to facilitate such a peaceful solution but not everything depends upon the Soviet government."

At the same time, Gromyko stressed that Russia was firm "on one basic point, that an East German peace treaty must be concluded and an end to the Second World War reached."

He declined to comment, however, when asked about a time limit for a peace treaty. Khrushchev has said a peace treaty will be signed with East Germany by the end of this year, but Communist propaganda organs recently have been vague about any deadline.

Gromyko was asked whether Russia would be prepared to negotiate an interim settlement on Berlin. "We do not think an interim settlement

Canada Abstains
On Censure Vote

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United Nations General Assembly today voted overwhelmingly in favor of a motion of censure against South Africa for a speech delivered earlier in the day by South Africa's Foreign Minister Eric Louw. The vote was 67 to 1 with 20 abstentions, Canada being one of the abstainers.

Liberia, which introduced the motion, said that Louw's speech defending South Africa's racial policies was "offensive and erroneous."

Liberia's Henry Ford Cooper proposed the censure motion after withdrawing an earlier proposal that the speech of Louw be expunged from the record as insulting to all Africans.

Foreign Minister Jaja Wachuku of Nigeria seconded the censure motion, running to the rostrum to do so amid applause and laughter from African delegates.

Louw, speaking against the earlier motion, told delegates that its adoption would be a violation of the UN charter and said a "dismal" precedent for future UN debate would be set.

Louw said he had merely set forth his country's position and meant to insult no other country.

In his main speech before the assembly, Louw lashed out at African critics of his country's racial policies and said his country is not going to swerve from its policies of separate racial development despite criticism from other countries.

He also said that many of the African countries which were criticizing his government were faced with appalling economic conditions and illiteracy, and were criticizing South Africa to divert attention from their own shortcomings.

LOUW
... jibes at "Diefenbaker"

He mentioned specifically Liberia and Ethiopia—two of the oldest independent countries in Africa—as places where conditions were poor.

'Our Course Will Solve the Problem'

Citing unrest and turmoil in much of the continent, Louw said in a policy speech:

"We firmly believe that the course upon which we have embarked in South Africa will ultimately solve the problem of relations between the white and non-white races in our country."

He accused other nations of interfering in South Africa's affairs and charged that Negro politicians are bidding for African leadership with the idea "that the one that hits South Africa hardest is likely to gain the favor of the smaller African states."

"The leaders are not really worried about the Bantu (Negro) in South Africa," he said, "because they know that they are far better cared for than the masses in their own countries."

The foreign minister said the white people of South Africa are permanent residents rather than colonists and are no more able to return to their countries of origin than are "the Roosevelts, the Eisenhauers, the Diefenbachers and the van der Biltz."

Louw gave the European spellings.

At another point he said the black South Africans were not original inhabitants of the area but had arrived at the same time as the first Dutch settlers.

He asked whether the U.S., Canada and the Latin American countries—whose respective early histories of colonization "are similar to that of South Africa"—would be prepared to hand over control of their countries to Negroes or Indians if their positions were the same as that of South Africa.

Louw added, "Why is it that certain Western countries with large white populations are taking steps to limit quotas to non-white immigrants? Is it because in those countries racial friction has already manifested itself and that they are taking timely precautions to prevent the extension of such friction?"

Red China Overture
'The Same Old Song'

(See Page 16)

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U.S. officials were unimpressed today by a Communist Chinese statement that Red China would be willing to hold foreign ministers' talks with the United States.

The general U.S. reaction was that this has been heard before. Red China has long wanted to elevate its ambassadorial talks with the United States, presumably to seek added world prestige and more propaganda possibilities.

Washington's answer has always been that in prolonged ambassador-level talks since 1955 with the Peking regime in Geneva and Warsaw, the United States has been unable to reach agreement even on such relatively small problems as exchanging newsmen.

U.K. AIRPLANE INVENTOR BORN 60 YEARS TOO SOON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The National Geographic Society came up today with the startling information that the British parliament delayed the invention of the airplane for 60 years.

The society said a British inventor named William Samuel Henson applied for a patent on an "entirely rational" aircraft in 1842—six decades before Orville and Wilbur Wright flew 856 feet at Kitty Hawk, N.C.

Henson received his patent and petitioned parliament for funds to construct the plane. But the British government, according to the society, did not or could not supply the money despite "great public interest."

Henson's patent application described an "aerial steam carriage" to convey letters, goods and passengers from place to place through the air. His aircraft was a monoplane called the "Ariel," weighed 3,000 pounds and was powered by a steam engine capable of delivering 50 horsepower.

The geographic society said the engine was hatched to two pusher propellers which resembled paddle wheels. The wing was much like that on the Wright brothers plane, ribbed and covered with a strong fabric. "I prefer oiled silk for this purpose," Henson wrote in his patent application.

Henson's conception was entirely rational and markedly in advance of scientific thought for the year 1842," the society commented. "He lacked for success only a sufficiently light engine and a knowledge of the superiority of a curved wing section."

Queen Victoria herself granted Henson the patent for his "locomotive apparatus for air" the following year. Britain was in the throes of a severe depression and Henson never went beyond drawing of his aircraft.

Fisherman Plucked From Lonely Shore

T. Saiko of Prince Rupert, marooned on a rocky shore 20 miles south of Quatsino Sound for two days, was rescued Tuesday afternoon by a navy helicopter.

He had been there since Sunday when his disabled 34-foot gillnetter was washed ashore and wrecked.

He was first seen on Monday, and a ground party managed to reach him Monday afternoon with food and warm clothing. Further supplies were dropped by helicopter.

Saiko and the four members of the ground party were taken by the helicopter to the naval maintenance ship Cape Breton. The fisherman was treated for exposure, then flown to hospital at Port Hardy.

He was found when Canadian Fishing Co. officials, owners of the vessel, reported him overdue at Esperanza, and sent a company aircraft

Herring Fishermen Strike Monday

Herring fishermen members of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union have voted 98 per cent to cease fishing at noon next Monday to back up union demands for a return to the herring reduction price of $13 per ton.

The vote was taken by secret ballot.

The existing two-year agreement, which expires Monday, called for a price of $13 per ton. However, members claim that while the agreement was signed in October, 1959, the companies "locked out" the fishermen from Dec. 16, 1959, to Nov. 18, 1960, thereby forcing a price cut of $4.20 per ton.

Union officials claim the price of herring meal now stands at $129.50 per ton, the same as that quoted two years ago when the price of $13 was set in the two-year contract.

would be good. We think the peace treaty must be concluded and signed.

"Our No. 1 choice is the conclusion of a peace treaty together with the Western powers on the basis of an understanding with them."

Only if such an understanding could not be reached, would Russia sign a peace treaty with East Germany, he said.

Gromyko said his talks with Macmillan and the Foreign Secretary, the Earl of Home, had been useful.

"We think there has been a certain contribution in the right direction," he said.

Gromyko refused to comment on the possibility of an East-West summit conference soon. This was not discussed during his talks with Macmillan, he said.

The talks here followed similar talks with President Kennedy and State Secretary Rusk in Washington and New York.

The contracts, stretching over a period of three weeks, produced no tangible progress toward peaceful settlement of the Berlin crisis but appeared to take some of the heat out of it.

The usually dour Gromyko flashed smiles, Vs for victory and a new troika sign to newspapermen after his hour and 40-minute session with Macmillan. "Several times he told reporters that everything must be done to avert a military collision over Berlin."

British sources said Gromyko's meeting with the British leader produced no progress towards a solution to East-West difference on Berlin and Germany.

The meeting was entirely devoted to Berlin but no new approaches were made and no new positions adopted, they said.

ling over the questions of access to the city of West Berlin and the status of the city to the East German government, they would be courting a head-on collision."

The West also had to persuade Gromyko that a negotiated settlement must take account of the Western as well as the Soviet position, with some give as well as take on the Russian side.

"Now we are in a better position to talk about the substance of a serious negotiation. But the lesson of these preliminary exchanges is that while we must be relentless in pursuit of peace, we must be implacable in securing the essential liberties."

DEPLORES LOOSE TALK

Home deprecated public statements about the Berlin crisis that could jeopardize the West's negotiations with the Communists.

He said a hazard of the negotiator is that "his own people are forever signalling his cards to the other side, not deliberately certainly, not maliciously, but as a part of our tradition of free speech."

"I must ask everyone to remember that the Communist technique of negotiation is to pocket each concession and then try to raise the bid."

Home said he hoped every one would help to see negotiations are carried on in private.

Home spoke to the conference on an emergency resolution—later passed with only one dissenting vote—asking full support for the government and the Western allies in their stand on "the freedom and viability of West Berlin."

The emergency motion also asked the conference to reaffirm support of the United Nations charter and "for all measures designed to safeguard the independence, impartiality and effectiveness" of the UN secretariat.

Truck Driver Held Blameless

NANAIMO—Joseph Clifford Hill, a Campbell River truck driver, has been held blameless for the traffic death of five-year-old Arthur Keeping last Wednesday.

A coroner's jury Friday ruled the boy met death by misadventure under the wheels of the fully-loaded lumber semi-trailer truck.
